Enter Richard Duke of Gloceſter, ſolus.

NOW is the winter of diſcontent,
Made glorious ſommer by this Sonne of Yorke:
And all the cloudes that low'r vpon our houſe,
In the deepe boſome of the Ocean buried,
Now are our browes bound with victorius wreathes,
Our bruiſed armes hung vp for monuments.
Our ſterne alarums chang'd to merry meetings.
Our dreadfull marches to delightfull pleaſures.
Grim-viſagde war, hath ſmoothd his wrinkled front,
And now inſted of mounting barbed ſteedes,
To fright the ſoules of fearefull aduerſaries,
He capers nimbly in a Ladies chamber,
To the laciuious pleaſing of a loue.
But I that am not ſharpe of ſportiue trickes,
Nor made to court an amorous looking Glaſſe:
I that am rudely ſtampt, and want loues maieſty,
To ſtrut before a wanton ambling Nymph;
I that am curtaild of this faire proportion,
Cheated of feature by diſſembling nature,
Deform'd, vnfiniſht ſent before my time
Into this breathing world halfe made vp,
And that ſo lamely and vnfaſhionable,
That dogs barke at me as I halt at them:
Why I in this weake piping time of peace
Haue no delight to paſſe away the time,
Vnleſſe to ſpie my ſhadow in the ſunne,
And deſcant one mine owne deformity:
And therefore ſince I cannot proue a louer,
To entertaine theſe faire well ſpoken dayes,
I am determined to proue a villaine,
And hate the Idle pleaſures of theſe dayes:
Plots haue I layd, inductions dangerous,

By drunken prophesies libels and dreames,
To set my brother Clarence and the King,
In deadly hate the one against the other,
And if King Edward be as true and iust
As I am subtile, false and trecherous:
This day should Clarence closely bee mewd vp,
About a prophesie which sayes that G.
Of Edwards heires the murtherer shall be.
Diue thoughts downe to my soule, Enter Clarence with a Guard of men.
Heere Clarence comes;
Brother, good dayes, what meane this armed guard
That waits vpon your grace?

Cla. His maiesty tendring my persons safety, hath appointed
This conduct to conuey me to the Tower.

Glo. Vpon what cause?

Cla. Because my name is George,

Glo. Alacke my Lord, that fault is none of yours,
He should for that commit your god fathers:
O belike his maiesty hath some intent
That you shall be new christned in the tower,
But what is the matter Clarence, may I know?

Cla. Yea Richard when I doe know, for I protest
As yet I doe not, but as I can learne,
He harkens after prophesies and dreames,
And from the crosse-row pluckes the letter G,
And sayes a wizard told him that by G,
His issue disinherited should be,
And for my name of George begins with G,
It followes in his thought that I am he;
These as I learne and such like toyes as these,
Haue moued his highnesse to commit me now.

Glo. Why this it is when men are rulde by women,
Tis not the King that sends you to the Tower,
My Lady Gray his wife, Clarence tis she
That tempts him to this extreamity,
Was it not she and that good man of worship
Anthony Woodnile her brother there,
That made him send Lord Hastings to the tower,
From whence this present day he is deliuered?
We are not safe Clarence, we are not safe.

Cla: By heauen I thinke there is no man secur'd
But the queenes kindred, and night walking heralds that truge betweene the King and Mistris Shore:
Heard you not what an humble suppliant
Lord Hastings was to her for his deliuery?

Glo. Humbly complayning to her Deity,
Got my Lord Chamberlaine his liberty,
Ile tell you what, I thinke it were our way,
If we will keepe in fauour with the King,
To bee her men and were her liuery,
The iealous ore-worne widdow and her selfe,
Since that our brother dubd them Gentlewomen,
Are mighty gossips in this monarchy.

Bro. I beseech your graces both to pardon me?
His maiesty hath straightly giuen in charge,
That no man shall haue priuate conference,
Of what degree soeuer with his brother.

Glo. Euen so and please your worship Brokenbury,
You may pertake of any thing wee say:
We speake no treason man, we say the King
Is wise and vertuous and the noble Queene
Well shroke in yeares, faire and not iealous,
We say that Shores wife hath a pretty foote,
A cherry lip, a bonny eye, a passing pleasing tongue:
And that the Queenes kindred are made gentle folkes:
How say you sir, can you deny all this?

Bro, With this (My Lord) my selfe hath nought to do.

Glo. Nought to do with Mistris Shore, I tell thee fellow,
He that doth nought with her excepting one,
Were best he do it secretly alone,

Bro. What one my Lord?

Glo. Her husband knaue, wouldst thou betray me?

Bro. I beseech your Grace to pardon me, and withall for-
Your conference with the noble Duke. (beare

Cla. we know thy charge Brokenbury, and will obey,

Glo. We are the Queenes Abiects and must obey,
Brother farewell I will vnto the King,
And whatsoeuer you will imploy me in,
Were it to call King Edwards widdow sister,

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

I will performe it to infranchiſe you,
Meane time this deepe diſgrace in brother hood,
Touches me deeper then you can imagine.
Cla. I know it pleaſeth neither of vs well.
Glo. Well your impriſonment ſhall not be long.
I will deliuer you, or lie for you,
Meane time haue patience.
Cla. I muſt perforce, farewell. Exit Cla.
Glo. Go tread the path, that thou ſhalt nere returne,
Simple plaine Clarence, I doe loue thee ſo,
That I will ſhortly ſend thy ſoule to heauen,
If heauen will take the preſent at our hands.
But who comes heere the new deliuered Haſtings.

Enter Lord Haſtings.

Haſt. Good time of day vnto my gracious Lord,
Glo. As much vnto my good Lord Chamberlaine:
Well, are you welcome to this open aire,
How hath your Lordſhip brookt impriſonment?
Haſt. with patience (noble Lord) as priſoners muſt:
But I ſhall liue my Lord to giue them thanks,
That were the cauſe of my impriſonment.
Glo. No doubt, no doubt, and ſo ſhall Clarence too,
For they that were your enemyes, are his,
And haue preuaild as much on him as you.
Haſt. More pitty that the Egle ſhould be mewed
While Kites and Buzzards prey at liberty.
Glo. What newes abroad,
Haſt. No newes ſo bad abroad, as this at home:
The King is ſickly weake and melancholly,
And his Phiſitians feare him mightily.
Glo. now by ſaint Paul this newes is bad indeed,
Oh he hath kept on ill diet long,
And ouer much conſumed his royall perſon,
Tis very grieuous to be thought vpon,
What is he in his bed?
Haſt. He is.
Glo. Go you before, and I will follow you, Exit Haſt.
He cannot liue I hope, and muſt not die
Till George be packt with poſt horſe vp to heauen:
Ile in to vrge his hatred more to Clarence, With

With lies well ſteeld with weightie arguments,
And if I faile not in my deepe intent,
Clarence hath not another day to liue:
Which done God take King Edward to his mercy,
And leaue the world for me to buſſell in,
For then Ile marry Warwicks youngeſt daughter,
What though I kill her husband and her father,
The redieſt way to make the wench amends,
Is to become her husband and her father:
The which will I not all ſo much for loue,
As for another ſecret cloſe intent,
By marring her which I muſt reach vnto,
But yet I run before my horſe to market:
Clarence ſtill liues, Edward ſtill raignes,
When they are gone then muſt I count my gaines Exit

Enter Lady Anne, with the herſe of Henry the ſixt.

Lady. Set downe, ſet downe, your honorable Lord.
If honor may be ſhrowded in a hearſe,
Whil'ſt I a while obſequiouſly lament
The vntimely fall of vertuous Lancaſter,
Poore key-cold figure of a holy King,
Pale aſhes of the houſe of Lancaſter,
Thou bloudleſſe remnant of that royall bloud,
Be it lawfull that I inuocate thy Ghoſt,
To heare the lamentations of poore Anne,
Wife to thy Edward, to thy ſlaughtered ſonne,
Stabd by the ſelfe ſame hands that made theſe holes
Loe in thoſe windowes that let forth thy life,
I poure the helpeleſſe blame of my poore eyes,
Curſt be the hand that made the fatall holes,
Curſt be the heart, that had the heart to doe it,
More direfull hap betide that hated wretch,
That makes vs wretched by the death of thee:
Then I can wiſh to Adders, ſpiders, toads,
Or any creeping venomde thing that liues.
If euer he haue child, abortiue be it,
Prodigious and vntimely brought to light:
Whoſe vgly and vnnaturall aſpect
May fright the hopefull mother at the view,

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

If euer he haue wife let her be mad,
As miserable by the death of him,
As I am made by my poore Lord and thee.
Come now towards Chertley with your holy load
Taken from Paules to be interred there:
And still as you are weary of the waight,
Rest you whiles I lament King Henries coarse.

Enter Gloecester.

Glo. Stay you that beare the coarse, and set it downe,
La. What blacke Magitian, coniures vp this fiend
To stop deuoted charitable deeds?
Glo. Villaine, set downe the coarse or by Saint Paul,
Ile make a coarse of him that disobeyes?
Gen. Stand backe and Let the coffin passe,
Glo. Vnmanner'd dog, stand thou when I command,
Aduance thy halbert higher then my brest,
Or by Saint Paul ile strike thee to my foote,
And spurne vpon thee begger for thy boldnes.
La. What do you tremble, are you all affraid?
Alas, I blame you not for you are mortall,
And mortall eyes cannot endure the Diuell.
Auant thou fearefull minister of hell,
Thou hadst but power ouer his mortall body,
His soule thou canst not haue therefore be gone,
Glo. Sweet Saint for charity, bee not so curst.
La. Foule diuell, for Gods sake hence and trouble vs not,
For thou hast made the happy earth thy hell:
Fil'd it with cursing cries and deepe exclaimes,
If thou delight to vew thy hanious deeds,
Behold this patterne of thy butcheries.
Oh Gentlemen see, see dead henries wounds,
Open their congeal'd mouths and bleed afresh,
Blush, blush, thou lumpe of foule deformity,
For tis thy presence that exhals this blood,
From cold and emptie veynes where no bloud dwels,
Thy deed inhumane and vnnaturall,
Prouokes this deluge most vnnaturall,
Oh God, which this bloud mad'st, reuenge his death:
Oh earth which this bloud drink'st, reuenge his death:
Either heauen with lightning strike the murtherer dead,

Or earth gape open wide, and eate him quicke,
As thou didst swallow vp this good Kings blood,
Which his Hell-gouernd arme hath butchered.
Glo. Lady, you know no rule of charity,
Which render good for bad, blessings for curses,
La. Villanne, thou knowst no law of God, nor man:
No beast so fierce, but knowes some touch of pittie,
Glo But I know none, and therefore am no beast.
La. Oh wonderfull when deuils tell the truth,
Glo, More wonderfull when Angels are so angry,
Vouchsafe deuine perfection of a woman,
Of these suppos'd euils to giue me leaue,
By circumstance but to acquit my selfe.
La. vouchsafe defused infection of a man,
For these knowne euils but to giue me leaue,
By circumstance to curse thy cursed selfe.
Glo. Fairer then tongue can name thee, let me haue
Some patient leasure to excuse my selfe.
La. Fouler then heart can thinke thee, thou canst make
No excuse currant, but to hang thy selfe.
Glo. By such dispaire I should accuse my selfe.
La. And by dispairing shouldst thou stand excusde,
For doing worthy vengeance on thy selfe,
Which didst, vnworthy slaughter vpon others.
Glo. Say that I slew them not.
La. Why then they are not dead:
But dead they are and diuelish slaue by thee.
Glo, I did not kill your husband.
La. Why then he is aliue.
Glo. Nay he is dead and slaine by Edwards hand.
La. In thy foule throat thou liest. Queene Margret saw
Thy bloody faulchion smooking in his blood,
The which thou once didst bend against her brest,
But that my brother beat aside the poynt.
Glo. I was prouoked by her slanderous tongue
Which laid her guilt vpon my guiltlesse shoulders.
La. Thou wast prouoked by thy bloody minde,
Which neuer dreamt on ought: but butcheryes:
Didst thou not kil this King? Glo. I grant yee

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

La, Doeſt graunt me hedgehog, then God grant me too
Thou maieſt be damned for that wicked deede.
Oh he was gentle, milde, and vertuous.
Glo. The fitter for the King of Heauen that hath him.
La. He is in heauen, where thou ſhalt neuer come.
Glo. Let him thanke me that holpe to ſend him thither,
For he was fitter for that place then earth.
La. And thou vnfit for any place but hell.
Glo. Yes one place elſe, if you will heare me name it.
La. Some Dungeon. Glo. Your bed-chamber.
La. Ill reſt betide the chamber where thou lieſt.
Glo. So will it Maddam till I lie with you.
La. I hope ſo.
Glo. I know ſo, but gentle Lady Anne,
To leaue this kind incounter of your wits,
And fall ſomewhat into a ſlower methode:
Is not the cauſer of the time-leſſe deaths,
Of theſe Plantagenets, Henry and Edward,
As blamefull as the executioner?
La. Thou art the cauſe, and moſt accurſt effect.
Glo. Your beauty was the cauſe of that effect.
Your beauty which did haunt me in my ſleepe,
To vndertake the death of all the world,
So I might reſt that houre in your ſweete boſome.
La. If I thought that, I tell thee homicide,
Theſe nailes ſhould rend that beauty from their cheekes.
Glo. Theſe eyes could neuer endure ſweete beauties wrack,
You ſhould not blemiſh them if I ſtood by:
As al the world is cleared by the Sunne,
So I by that, it is my day, my life.
La. Blacke night ouerſhad thy day, and death thy life.
Glo. Curſe not thy ſelfe faire creature, thou art both.
La. I would I were to be reuenged on thee.
Glo. It is a quarrell moſt vnnaturall,
To be reuenged on him that loueth you.
La. It is a quarrell iuſt and reaſonable,
To be reuenged on him that ſlew my Husband.
Glo. He that bereft thee Lady of thy husband
Did it to helpe thee to a better husband.

La. His better doth not breath vpon the earth.
Glo. Go too, he liues that loues you better then he could.
La. Name him Glo. Plantagenet.
La. Why what was hee?
Glo. The ſelfe ſame name but one of better nature,
La. Where is hee?
Glo. Heere. Shee ſpitteth at him.
Why doeſt ſpit at me?
La. Would it were mortall poyſon for thy ſake.
Glo. Neuer came poyſon from ſo ſweete a place.
La. Neuer hung poyſon on a fowler toade,
Out of my ſight thou doeſt infect my eyes.
Glo. thine eyes ſweete Lady haue infected mine,
La. Would they were Baſiliskes to ſtrike thee dead.
Glo. I would they were, that I might die at once,
For now they kill me with a liuing death:
Thoſe eyes of thine from mine haue drawne ſalt teares,
Shamed their aſpect with ſtore of childiſh drops,
I neuer ſued to friends nor enemy,
My tongue could neuer learne ſweete ſmoothing words.
But now thy beauty is propoſde my fee;
My proud heart ſues, and prompts my tongue to ſpeake,
Teach not my lips ſuch ſcorne, for they were made
For kiſſing Lady not for ſuch contempt.
If thy reuengefull heart cannot for giue,
Loe here I lend thee this ſharpe poynted ſword,
Which if you pleaſe to hide in this true boſome,
And let the ſoule forth that a dorneth thee:
I lay it naked to thy deadly ſtroake:
And humbly beg the death vpon my knee.
Nay, doe not pauſe, twas I that kild your husband,
But twas thy beauty that prouoked me:
Nay now diſpatch, twas I that kild king Henry,
But twas thy heauenly face that ſet me on: Here ſhe let ſall the ſword.
Take vp the ſword againe, or take vp me.
La. Ariſe diſſembler, though I wiſh thy death,
I will not be the executioner.
Glo. Then bid me kill my ſelfe, and I will doe it.
La. I haue alreadie.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

Glo. Tush, that was in the rage:
Speake it againe, and euen with the word,
That hand which for thy Loue did kill thy Loue,
Shall for thy loue, kill a farre truer loue,
To both their deaths thou shalt be accessary.
La. I would know thy heart.
Glo. Tis figured in my tongue.
La. I feare me both are false.
Glo. Then neuer man was true.
La. Well, well, put vp your sword.
Glo. Say then my peace is made.
La. That shall you know hereafter.
Glo. But I shall liue in hope.
La. All men I hope liue so.
Glo. Vouchsafe to weare this ring.
La. To take is not to giue.
Glo. Looke how this ring incompasseth thy finger,
Euen so thy breast incloseth my poore heart.
Were both of them for both of them are thine.
And if thy poore supplyant may
But beg one fauour at thy gracious hand,
Thou doest confirme his happinesse forcuer.
La. What is it?
Glo. That it would please thee leaue these sad designes
To him that hath more cause to be a mourner,
And presently repaire to Crosbie place,
Where, after I haue solemnely enterred
At Chertsie Monastery this noble King,
And wet his graue with my repentant teares,
I will with all expedient dutie see you:
For diuers vnknowne reasons, I beseech you
Grant me this boone.
La. with all my heart, and much it ioyes me too,
To see you are become so penitent:
Tressill and Bartly, goe along with me.
Glo. Bid me farewell.
La. Tis more then you deserue:
But since you teach me how to flatter you,
Imagine I haue sayd farewell already Exit.

Glo.

Glo. Sirs, take vp the course.
Ser. Towards Chertsie noble Lord?
Glo. No to white Fryers there attend my comming:
Was euer woman in this humour woed? Exunt Manet Glo.
Was euer woman in this humour wonne?
Ile haue her, but I will not keepe her long.
What I haue kild her husband and her father,
To take her in her hearts extreamest heate:
With curses in her mouth teares in her eyes.
The bleeding witnesse of her hatred by:
Hauing God, her conscience, and these barres against me;
And I nothing to backe my suite withall
But the plaine Diuel and dissembling lookes,
And yet to win her all the world is nothing? Hah?
Hath shee forgot already that braue Prince
Edward, her Lord, Whom I some three moneths since
Stabd in my angry mood at Tewxbury?
A sweeter and louelier gentleman,
Framd in the prodigality of nature:
Yong, valiant, wise, and no doubt right royall,
The spacious world cannot againe affoord.
And will she yet debace her eyes on me,
That crept the golden prime of this sweet Prince,
And made her widdow to a woefull bed?
On me, whose all not equals Edwards moity,
On me that halt, and am vnshapen thus?
My Dukedome to be a beggerly denier,
I doe mistake my person all this while.
Vpon my life shee finds although I cannot
My selfe, to be a marualous proper man,
Ile be at charges for a Looking-glasse,
And entertaine some score or two of tailors
To studie fashions to adorne my body,
Since I am crept in fauour with my selfe,
I will maintaine it with a little cost.
But first ile turne yon fellow in his graue,
And then returne lamenting to my loue.
Shine out faire sunne, till I haue bought a glasse,
That I may see my shadow as I passe. Exit.

Enter Queene, Lord Riuers and Gray.

Ri. Haue patience Maddam, thers no doubt his maiesty,
Will soone recouer his accustomed health.

Gray. In that you brooke it ill, it makes him worse,
Therefore for Gods sake entertaine good comfort,
and cheare his grace with quicke and merry words,

Qu. If he were dead what should betide of me?

Ri. No other harme but losse of such a Lord.

Qu. The losse of such a Lord includes all harme.

Gray. The heauens haue blest you with a goodly sonne.
To be your comforter when he is gone.

Qu. Oh he is yong, and his minority
Is put in the trust of Rich. Gloucester,
A man that loues not me, nor none of you.

Ri. It is concluded he shall be Protector?

Qu. It is determined, not concluded yet,
But so it must be if the King miscarry, Enter Buck. Darby.

Gr. Here comes the Lords of Buckingham and Darby.

Buc. Good time of day vnto your royall grace.

Dar. God make your maiesty ioyfull as you haue bene.

Qu. The Countesse Richmond good my Lord of Darby.
To your good prayers will scarce say, amen:
Yet Darby, notwithstanding shees your wife,
And loues not me, be you good Lord assured
I hate not you for her proud arrogancie.

Dar. I beseech you either not beleeue
The enuious slanders of her accusers,
Or if she be accused in true report,
Beare with her weakenesse, which I thinke proceeds
From wayward sickenesse, and no grounded malice.

Ri. Saw you the King to day my Lord Darby?

Dar. But now the Duke of Buckingham and I,
Came from visiting his Maiestie.

Qu. What likelihood of his amendment Lords?

Buc. Madam, good hope, his grace speakes cheerfully.

Qu. God graunt him health, did you confer with him?

Buc. Madam we did, He desires to make attonement
Betwixt the Duke of Glocester and your brothers,
And betwixt them and my Lord Chamberlaine,

And sent to warne them of his royall presence.

Qu. Would all were well, but that will neuer be,
I feare our happinesse is at the highest. Enter Glocester.

Glo. They doe me wrong and I will not endure it:
Who are they that complains vnto the King?
That I forsooth am sterne loue them not:
By holy Paul they loue his grace but lightly
That fill his eares with such dissentious rumours:
Because I cannot flatter and speake faire,
Smile in mens faces smooth deceiue and cog
Ducke with French nods, and apish courtesie,
I must be held a rankerous enemie.
Cannot a plaine man liue and thinke no harme,
But thus in simple truth must be abusde
By silken slie insinuating Iackes?

Ri. To home in this presence speakes your grace.

Glo. To thee that hath no honesty nor grace.
When I haue iniured thee, when done thee wrong,
Or thee, or thee, or any of your faction?
A plague vpon you all. His royall person
(Whome God preserue better then you can wish)
Cannot be quiet scarce a breathing while,
But you must trouble him with lewd complaints.

Qu. Brother of Glocester, you mistake the matter:
The King of his owne royall disposition,
And not prouokt by any suter else,
Ayming belike at your interiour hatred,
Which in your outward actions shewes it selfe,
Against my kindred, brother, and my selfe:
Makes him to send that whereby wee may gather
The ground of your ill will, and to remoue it.

Glo. I cannot tell, the world is growne so bad,
That wrens may prey where eagles dare not pearch,
Since euery Iacke became a Gentleman
There's many a gentle person made a Iacke.

Qu. Come, come we know your meaning brother Gloster,
You enuie mine aduancement and my friends,
God grant we neuer may haue needs of you.

Glo. Meane time, God grant that we haue needs of you,

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

Our brother is imprisoned by your meanes,
My selfe disgraced, and the Nobility
Held in contempt, whilst many faire promotions
Are dayly giuen to enoble those
That scarse some two dayes since were worth a noble.
Qu. By him that raisde me to this carefull height,
From that contented hap which I enioyd,
I neuer did incense his Maiesty
Against the Duke of Clarence, but haue beene
An earnest aduocate to pleade for him.
My lord, you doe me shamefull iniury,
Falsely to draw me in, such vile suspect.
Glo. You may deny that you were not the cause,
Of my Lord Hastings late imprisonment.
Riu. She may my Lord,
Glo. She may, L. Riuers, why who knowes not so?
She may do more sir then denying that:
She may helpe you to many preferments,
And then deny her ayding hand therein,
And lay those honours on your high deserts.
What may she not? she may, yea marry may she.
Riu. What marry may she?
Glo. What marry may she? marry with a King
A batcheler, a handsome stripling too.
I wis your Grandam had a worser match.
Qu. My L. of Gloucester, I haue to long borne
Your blunt vpbraidings, and your bitter scoffes
By heauen I will acquaint his Maiesty,
With those grosse taunts I often haue endured.
I had rather be a country seruant maid,
Then a Queene with this condition,
To be thus taunted, scorned, and baited at,
Small ioy haue I in being Englands Queene.

Enter Qu. Margret.

Q. Mar. And lessned be that small, God I beseech thee,
Thy honour, state, and seat is due to me.
Glo. What? threat you me with telling the King?
Tell him and spare not looke what I sayd,
I will auoch in presence of the King:
Tis time to speake, when paines are quite forgot.

Q. Mar.

Qu. Mar. Out diuel, I remember them too well,
Thou slewest my husband Henry in the Tower,
And Edward my poore sonne at Tewxburie.
Glo. Ere you were Queene yea or your husband King,
I was a pack-horse in his great affaires,
A weeder out of his proud aduersaries,
A liberall rewarder of his friends:
To royallize his blood I spilt mine owne.
Qu. Mar. Yea, and much better blood, then his or thine
Glo. In all which time, you and your husband Gray,
Were factious for the house of Lankaster:
And Riuers, so were you. Was not your husband
In Margrets battaile at Saint Albons slaine:
Let me put in your mind, if yours forget,
What you haue beene ere now, and what you are:
Withall, what I haue beene, and what I am.
Qu. Mar. A murtherous villaine, and so still thou art.
Glo. Poore Clarence did forsake his Father Warwicke,
Yea and forswore himselfe (which Iesu pardon)
Qu. Mar. Which God reuenge.
Glo. To fight on Edwards party for the crowne,
And for his meede (poore Lord) hee is mewed vp:
I would to God my heart were flint like Edwards,
Or Edwards soft and pitty full like mine,
I am too childish foolish for this world.
Qu Mar. Hie thee to hell for shame, and leaue the world,
Thou Cacodæmon, there thy kingdome is.
Riu. My Lord of Gloucester in those busie dayes,
Which here you vrge to proue vs enemies,
We followe then our Lord, our lawfull King,
So should we now if you should be our King.
Glo. If I should be? I had rather be a pedlar,
Farre be it from my heart the thought of it,
Qu Mar As little ioy (my Lord) as you suppose
You should enioy, were you this countries King.
As little ioy may you suppose in me,
That I enioy, being the Queene thereof,
A little ioy enioyes the Queene thereof,
For I am she, and altogether ioylesse:

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

I can no longer hold me patient.
Heare me you wrangling pirates that fall out,
I shaking out that which you haue pild from me:
Which of you trembles not that looke on me?
If not, that I being Queene, you bow like subiects,
Yet that by you dispos'd, you quake like reabels:
O gentile villaine, doe not turne away.
Glo Foule wrinkled, witch, what makst thou in my sight?
Qu. Ma. But repitition of what thou hast mard,
That will I make, before I let thee goe:
A husband and a sonne thou owest vnto me,
And thou a kingdome, all of you allegeance:
The sorrow that I haue by right is yours,
And all the pleasure you vsurpe, is mine.
Glo. The curse my noble father layd one thee,
When thou didst crowne his warlike browes with paper,
And with thy scorne drewst riuers from his eyes,
And then to drie them, gau'st the duke a clout
Steept in the blood of pritty Rutland:
His curses then from bitternesse of soule,
Denounc'd against thee, are fallen vpon thee,
nd God, not we, hath plagude thy bloodie deed.
Qu. So iust is God to right the innocent.
Hast. O twas the foulest deed to slay that babe, nd the most merciless that euer was heard of.
Ri. Tyrants themselues wept when it was reported,
Dors. No man but prophesied reuenge for it.
Buc Northumberland then present, wept to see it.
Qu. Ma. What? were you snarling all before I came,
ady to cach each other by the throat,
nd turne you now your hatred now one me?
id Yorkes dread curse preuaile somuch with heauen,
hat Henries death my louely Edwards death,
heir kingdomes lost my woefull banishment,
ould all but answere for that peeuish brat?
an curses pearce the clouds, and enter heauen;
hy then giue way dull clouds to my quicke curses:
not by warre, by surfet die your King.
s ours by murder to make him a King.

Edward my sonne, which now is prince of Wales,
For Edward my son, which was a Prince of Wales,
Die in his youth by like vntimely violences,
Thy selfe a Queene, for me that was a Queene,
Outliue thy glory, like my wretched selfe:
Long maist thou liue to waile thy childrens losse,
And see another, as I see thee now
Deckt in thy glory, as thou art stald in mine:
Long die thy happy dayes before thy death,
And after many lengthened houres of griefe,
Die neither mother, wife, nor Englands Queene,
Rivers and Dorset, you were standers by,
And so was thou Lord Hastings, when my soone
Was stabd with bloody daggers, God I pray him,
That none of you may liue your naturall age,
But by some vnlookt accident cut off.
Glo. Haue done thy charme thou hatefull withered hag.
Qu. Ma. And leaue out thee? stay dog, for thou shalt heare me
If heauen haue any greeuous plague in store,
Exceeding those that I can wish vpon thee:
O let them keepe it till thy sinnes be ripe,
And then hurle downe their indignation
On thee the troubler of the poore worlds peace:
The worme of conscience still begnaw thy soule,
Thy friends suspect for traytors whilst thou liuest,
And take deepe traytors for thy dearest friends,
No sleepe close vp the deadly eyes of thine,
Vnlesse it be whilst some tormenting dreame
Affrights thee, with a hell of vgly diuels,
Thou elvish markt, abortiue rooting hog,
Thou that wast seald in thy natiuitie
The slaue of nature, and the sonne of hell,
Thou slaunder of thy mothers heauy womb,
Thou loathed issue of thy fathers loynes,
Thou rag of honour, thou detested, &c.
Glo. Margret.
Qu. Ma. Richard. Glo. Ha.
Qu. Ma. I call thee not.
Glo. Then I cry thee mercy: for I had thought

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

Thou hast cald me all these bitter names.
Qu.Mar. Why so I did,but looke for no reply;
O let me make the period to my curse.
Glo. Tis done by me and ends by Margret.
Thus haue you breathed your curse against your selfe.
Qu.Ma. Poore painted Queene, vaine flourish of my for-
Why strewst thou sugar one that botled spider, tune:
Whose deadly web inmareth thee about?
Foole foole thou whetst a knife to kill thy selfe,
The time will come when thou shalt wish for me,
To helpe thee curse that poisoned bunch backt toade,
Hast. False bolting woman, end thy frantick curse,
Least to thy harme thou moue our patience.
Qu. M. Foule shame vpon you, you haue all mou'd mine.
Ri. Were you well seru'd you would be taught your duty.
Qu.Ma. To serue me well, you should doe me duty;
Teach mee to bee your Queene, and you my subiects:
Obserue me well and teach your selues that dutie.
Dorf. Dispute not with her she is lunatique.
Qu.Ma Peace master Marquesse,you are malapert,
Your fire-new stampe of honour is scarce currant:
O that your young nobility could iudge,
What t'were to loose it and be miserable?
They that stand high, haue many blasts to shake them,
And if they fall they dash themselues to peeces.
Glo. Good counsell marry, learne it,learne it Marques,
Dorf. It toucheth you(my Lord) as much as me.
Glo. Yea,and much more,but I was borne so high,
Our aiery buildeth in the Cædars top,
And dallies with the winde,and scornes the sunne.
Qu.Ma. And turnes the Sunne to shade, alas,alas,
Witnes my sunne now in the shade of death,
Whose bright ou shining beames, thy cloudy wrath,
Hath in eternall darkenesse foulded vp:
Your aiery buildeth in our aeries neast.
O God that seest it, doe not suffer it:
As it was won with blood,lost be it so.
Buck. Haue done for shame, if not for charity.
Qu.M. Vrge neither charity nor shame to me,

Vncharitably with me haue you dealt,
And shamefully by you my hopes are butchered,
My charity is outrage,life my shame,
And in my shame shall liue my sorrowes rage.
Buck. Haue done.
Q. Mar. O princely Buckingham, I will kisse thy hand,
In signe of league and amity with thee:
Now faire befall thee and thy Princely house,
Thy garments are not spotted with our blood,
Nor thou within the compasse of my curse.
Buck. Nor none heere for curses neuer passe
The lips of them that breath them in the aire.
Qu.Mar Ile not beleeue but they ascend the skie,
And there awake Gods gentle sleeping peace.
O Buckingham beware of yonder dog,
Looke when he saunes he bites,and when he bites,
His venome tooth will rankle thee to death,
Haue not to doe with him, beware of him:
Sinne,death,and hell haue set their markes on him.
And all their ministers attend on him.
Glo. What doth she say my Lord of Buckingham?
Buck Nothing that I respect my gratious Lord.
Qu Mar. What dost thou scorne me for my gentle coun-
And sooth the diuell that I warne thee from? sell,
O but remember this another day,
When he shall split thy very heart with sorrow,
And say poore Margret was a Prophetesse:
Liue each of you,the subiect of his hate,
And he to you,and all of you to Gods. Exit.
Hast. My haire doth stand an end to heereher curses.
Riu. And so doth mine, I wonder shees at liberty?
Glo. I cannot blame her by Gods holy mother,
She hath had too much wrong, and I repent
My part thereof that I haue done.
Hast. I neuer did her any to my knowledge.
Glo. But you haue all the vantage of this wrong,
I was too hot to doe some body good,
That is to cold in thinking one it now:
Marry as for Clarence, hee is well repayd,

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

He is franke vp to fatting for his paines,
God pardon them that are the cause of it,
Riu. A vertuous and Christian like conclution,
To pray for them that haue done scath to vs.
Glo. So doe I euer being well aduised,
For had I curst, now I had curst my selfe.
Catsf. Maddam his Maiesty doth call for you:
And for your noble grace and you my Lord.
Qu. Catesby we come, Lords will you goe with vs:
Ri. Maddam we will attend your grace. Exunt Ma. Gl.
Glo. I doe thee wrong, and first began to braul,
The secret mischiefe that I set abroach,
I lay vnto the greevious charge of others:
Clarence, whome I indeede haue laid in darkenesse:
I doe beweepe to many simple gulls:
Namely to Hastings, Darby Buckingham,
And say it is the Queene, and her allies.
That stirre the K. against the Duke my brother.
Now they beleeue me, and withall wet me
To bee reuenged one Riuers, Vaughan, Gray.
But then sigh, and with a peece of scripture,
Tell them that God bids vs to doe good for euill:
And thus I cloath my naked villany
With old od ends, stolen out of holy writ,
And seeme a S. when most I play the diuell.
But soft heere comes my executioners, Enter executioners.
How now, my hardly stout resolued mates,
Are yea not going to dispatch this deed?
Exe. We are my Lord and come to haue the warrant,
That we may be admitted where he is.
Glo. It was well thought vpon, I haue it heere about me,
When you haue done repaire to Crosby place:
But sirs, be suddaine in the execution:
Withall, obdurate: doe not heere him pleade,
For Clarens is well spoken, and perhaps
May mooue your hearts to pity if you marke him.
Exe. Tush, feare not, my Lord we will not stant to prate,
Talkers are no good doers be assured:
We come to vse our hands and not our tongues.

Glo.

Glo. Your eyes drop milstones, when fooles eies drop teares.
I like you Lads, about your businesse. Exunt

Enter Clarence Brokenbury.

Bro. Why lookes your Grace so heauily to day?
Cla. O I haue past a miserable night,
So full of vgly sights, of gastly dreames:
That as I am a Christian faithfull man,
I would not spend another such a night,
Though t'were to by a world of happy dayes,
So full of dismall terrour was the time.
Bro. What was your dreame? I long to heare you tell it.
Cla Me thought I was imbarkt for burgundy,
And in my company my brother Gloucester,
Who from my cabben tempted me to walke
Vpon the hatches there he lookes toward England,
And cited up a thousand fearefull times,
During the warres of Yorke and Lancaster,
That had befallen vs: as we past along,
Vpon the giddy footing of the Hatches,
Me thought that Gloucester stumbled and in stumbling
Strooke me (that thought to stay him) ouer boord
Into the tumbling billowes of the maine:
Lord, Lord, me thought what paine it was to drowne,
What dredfull noyse of water in mine eares,
What a sight of death within mine eyes:
Me thought I saw a thousand fearefull wrackes,
Ten thousand men that fishes gnawed vpon,
Wedges of gold, greate Anchors, heapes of pearle,
Inestimable stones, vnvalued iewels,
Some lay in dead mens sculs, and in those holes
Where eyes did once inhabit, there were crept
As if it twere in scorne of eyes, reflecting gems,
Which wade the slimie bottome of the deepe,
And mokt the dead bones that lay scatered by.
Brok. Had you such leasure in the time of death,
To gaze vpon the secrets of the deepe?
Cla. Me thought I had: for still the enuious flood
Kept in my soule, and would not let it foorth,
To keepe the empty, vast, and wandring ayre,

But

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

But smothred it within my panting bulke,
Which almost burst to belch it in the sea.
Brok. Awakt you not with this sore agonie?
Clar. O no, my dreame was lengthned after life,
O then began the tempest of my soule,
Who past (me thought) the melancoly flood,
With that grim ferriman which Poets write of,
Vnto the Kingdome of perpetuall night:
The first that there did greete my stranger soule,
Was my great Father in law, renowned Warwicke,
Who cried aloud, what scourge for periury
Can this darke monarchie afford false Clarence?
And so he vanisht: Then came wandring by,
A shadow like an Angell, in bright haire,
Dadled in blood, and he squeakt out a lo d
Clarence is come, false, fleeting, periurd Clarence?
That stabd me in the field at Tewxbury:
Seaze one him furies; take him to your torments,
With that me thought a legion of foule feinds
Enuironed me about, and howled in mine eares,
Such hidious cries, that with the very noise,
I trembling wakt, and for a season after,
Could not beleeue but that I was in hell,
Such terrible impression made the dreame.
Brok. No maruaile my Lord though it affrighted you,
I promise you I am afraid to heare you tell it.
Cla. O Brokenbury, I haue done those things,
Which now beare euidence against my soule,
For Edwards sake and see how he requites me:
I pray thee gentile keeper stay by me,
My soule is heauy and I faine would sleepe.
Brok. I will (my Lord) God giue your grace good rest,
Sorrow breakes seasons, and reposing howres
Makes the night morning, and the noonetide night.
Princes haue but their title for their glories,
An outward honour for an inward toyle:
And for vnfelt imaginations,
They often feele a world of restlesse cares:
So that betwixt your titles, and low names,

There's nothing differs but the outward fame.
The murderers enter.
In Gods name what are you, and how came you hither?
Exe. I would speake with Clarence, and I came hither on my legs,
Bro. Yea, are ye so briefe?
2. Exe. O sir, it is better to be briefe then tedious,
Shew him your Commission, talke no more. He readeth it.
Bro. I am in this commanded to deliuer
the noble Duke of Clarence to your hands,
I will not reason what is meant thereby
Because I will be guiltlesse of the meaning:
Heere are the keyes, there sits the Duke a sleepe.
Ile to his maiesty and certifie his Grace,
That thus I haue resignd my place to you,
Exe. Do so it is apoynt of wisdome.
2. What shall we stab him as he sleepes?
1. Noe then he will say twas done cowardly
When he wakes.
2. When he wakes,
Why foole he shall neuer wake till the Iudgement day.
1. Why then he will say we stabd him sleeping.
2. The vrging of that word Iudgement, hath bred
A kinde of remorse in me.
1. What art afraid?
2. Not to kill him hauing a warrant for it, but to be damnd
For killing him, from which no warrant can defend vs.
1. Backe to the Duke of Glocester, tell him so.
2, I pray thee stay a while, I hope my holy humour will Change, twas wont to hold me but while one could tell xx.
1. How doest thou feele thy selfe now? (me
2. Faith some certaine dregs of conscience are yet within
1. Remember our reward when the deede is done,
2. Zounds he dies, I had forgot the reward.
1. Where is thy conscience now?
2. In the Duke of Glocesters purse.
1. So when he opens his purse to giue vs our reward,
Thy conscience flies out.
2. Let it goe ther's few or none will entertaine it.
1. How if it come to thee againe?

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

2. Ile not meddle with it, it is a dangerous thing,
It makes a man a coward. A man cannot steale,
But it accuseth him, he cannot steale but it checks him:
He cannot lie with his neighbours wife but it detects,
Him, it is a blushing shamfull spirite that mutinies
In a mans bosome: it fils one full of obstacles,
It made me once restore a peece of gold that I found.
It beggers any man that keepes it: it is turnd out of all
Townes and Cities for a dangerous thing, and euery
Man that meanes to liue well, and endeauours to trust
To himselfe, and liue without it.

1. Zounds, it is euen now at my elbow, perswading me
Not to kill the Duke.

2. Take the diuill in thy minde, and beleeue him not,
He would insinuate with thee to make thee sigth.

1. Tut I am strong in fraud he cannot preuaile with me,
I warrant thee.

2. Stood like a tall fellow that respects his reputation,
Come shall we to this geare?

1. Take him ouer the costard with the hilt of my sword,
And then we will chop him in the Malmsey, but in the next
2. Oh excelent deuice, make a soppe of him. roome:

1. Harke, he stirs, shall I strike?

2. No, first lets reason with him. Cla. awaketh.

Cla. Where art thou keeper, giue mee a cup of wine.

1. You shall haue wine enough, my Lord anone.

Cla. in Gods name what art thou:

2. A man, as you are.

Cla. But not as I am, royall.

1. Nor you as wee are loyall.

Cla. Thy voyce is thunder, but thy lookes are humble.

2. My voyce is now the Kings, my lookes mine owne.

Cla. How darkely and how deadly doest thou speake?
Tell mee, who are you? wherefore came you hither?

Am. To, to, to.

Cla. To murther me? Am. I.

Cla. You scarce haue the heart to tell mee so,
And therefore cannot haue the heart to doe it,
Wherein my friends haue I offended you?

1. Offended

1. Offended vs you haue not, but the King.

Cla. I shall be reconciled to him againe.

2. Neuer my Lo. therefore prepare to die.

Cla. Are you cald forth from out a world of men
To slay the innocent? what is my offence?
Where are the euidence to accuse me?
What lawfull quest hath giuen their verdict vp
Vnto the frowning Iudge, or who pronounc'd
The bitter sentence of poore Clarence death,
Before I be conuicte by course of law?
To threaten me with death is most vnlawfull:
I charge you as you hope to haue redemption,
By Christs deare blood shed for our greeuous sinnes,
That you depart and lay no hand one mee,
The deede you vndertake is damnable,

1. What wee will doe, we doe vpon command.

2. And he that hath commanded vs is the King.

Cla. Erroneous vassaile, the great King of Kings,
Haue in his Table of his Law commanded,
That thou shalt doe no murder, and wilt thou then
Spurne at his edict, and fullfill a mans?
Take heede, for he holdes vengeance in his hands,
To hurle vpon their heads that breake his law.

2. And that same vengeance doth he throw on thee,
For false forswearing and for murther too?
Thou didst receiue the holy Sacrament,
To fight the quarel of the house of Lancaster.

1. And like a traitor to the name of God, didst breake that vow, and with thy trecherous blade
Vnript the bowels of thy Soneraignes sonne,

2. Whome thou wert sworne to cherish and defend.

1. How canst thou vrge Gods dreadfull Law to vs,
When thou hast brooke it in so deere degree?

Cla. Alas, for whose sake did I that ill deed?
For Edward, for my brother, for his sake:
Why sirs he sends you not to murder me for this,
For in this sin he is as deepe as I,
If God will be reuenged for this deede,
Take not the quarrell from his powerfull arme,

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

He needs no indirect nor lawfull course,
To cut off those that haue offended him.
1. Who made thee then a bloody minister,
When gallant spring, braue Plantagenet,
The Princly Nouice was strooke dead by thee.
Cla. My brothers loue, the Deuill, and my rage,
1. Thy brothers loue, the Deuill, and thy fault,
Haue brought vs hither now to murder thee.
Cla. Oh, if you loue my brother hate not me,
I am his brother and I loue him well:
If you be hire for meede goe backe againe,
And I will send you to my brother Gloucester,
Who will reward you better for my life,
Then Edward will for tydings of my death.
2. You are deceiued your brother Gloucester hates you.
Cla. Oh no, he loues mee and he holds me deare,
Go you to him from me.
Am. I so we will.
Cla. Tell him, when that our Princely father Yorke,
Blest his three sonnes with his victorious arme:
And charged vs from his soule to loue each other,
He little thought of this diuided friendship.
Bid Gloucester thinke on this and hee will weepe,
Am. I milstones, as he lessoned vs to weepe,
Cla. O, doe not slaunder him for he is kind.
1. Right as snow in harueſt, thou deceiueſt thy selfe,
Tis hee that sent vs hither now to murder thee.
Cla. It cannot be: for when I parted with him
He hugd me in his armes, and swore with sobs
That he would labour my deliuery.
2. Why so he doth, now he deliuers thee
From this worlds thrauldome: to the ioyes of heauen,
1. make peace with God, for you must die my Lord.
Cla. Hast thou that holy feeling in thy soule,
To counsell mee to make my peace with God,
And art thou yet to thy owne soule so blind,
That thou wilt war with God, for murdring me?
Ah sirs consider he that set you on
To doe this deede, will hate you for this deede,

2. What shall we doe?
Cla. Relent, and saue your soules.
1. Relent, tis cowardly, and womanish.
Cla. Not to relent, is beastly, sauage, and diuelish.
My friends I spie some pitty in yous lookes;
Oh if thy eye be not a flatterer,
Come thou one my side and intreete for me:
A begging Prince what beggar pities not?
1. I thus, and thus: if this will not serue, He stabs him.
Ile chop thee in the malmesey But in the next roome.
2. A bloody deed and desperatly performd,
How faine would I like Pilate wash my hand,
Of this most grieuous guilty murder done.
1. Why doest thou not helpe me?
By heauen the Duke shall know how slacke thou art.
2. I would he knew that I had saued his brother,
Take thou the fee and tell him what I say,
For I repent me that the Duke is slaine. Exit.
1. So do not I, goe coward as thou art.
Now must I hide his body in some hole,
Vntill the Duke take order for his buriall:
And when I haue my meed I must away,
For this will out, and here I must not stay, Exeunt.

Enter King, Queene, Hastings, Riuers, &c.

King. So now I haue done a good dayes worke,
Your Peares continue the vnited league,
I euery day expect an Embassage
From my Redeemer, to redeeme me hence:
And now in peace my soule shall part to heauen,
Since I haue set my friends at peace on earth:
Riuers and Hasting, take each others hand,
Dissemble not your hatred, sweare your loue.
Ri. By heauen my heart is purged from grudging hate,
And with my hand I seale my true hearts loue.
Hast. So thriue I as I sweare the like.
King. Take heede you dally not before your King,
Least he that is the supreame King of Kings,
Confound your hidden falshood, and award
Either of you to bee the others end.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

Haſt. So proſper I, as I ſweare perfect loue.
Ri. And I as I loue Haſtings with my heart.
Kin. Maddam, your ſelfe is not exempt in this,
Nor your ſonne Dorſet, Buckingham, nor you,
You haue bene factious one againſt the other:
Wiſe, loue Lord Haſtings, let him kiſſe your hand,
And what you doe, do it vnfainedly.
Qu. Heere Haſtings, I will neuer more remember
Our former hatred, ſo thriue I and mine.
Dor. Thus enterchange of loue, I here proteſt,
Vpon my part ſhall be vnuiolable.
Ha. And ſo I ſweare my Lord.
Kin. Now princely Buckingham ſeale vp this league,
With thy embracement to my wiues allies,
And make me hapy in his vnity.
Buc. When euer Buckingham doth turne his hate
On you, or yours, but with all dutious loue
Doth cheriſh you and yours, God puniſh mee
With hate, in thoſe where I expect moſt loue,
When I haue moſt neede to imploy a friend.
And moſt aſſured that he is a friend,
Deepe, hollow, trecherous, and full of guile
Be he vnto me: This doe I begge of God,
When I am cold in zeale to you or yours.
Kin. A pleaſing cordiall princely Buckingham,
Is this thy vow vnto my ſickly heart:
There wanteth now our brother Gloceſter here,
to make the perfect period of this peace.

Enter Gloceſter.

Buc. And in good time heere comes the noble Duke,
Glo. Good morrow to my ſoueraigne King and Queene,
And princely peares, a happy time of day.
Kin. Happy indeede as wee haue ſpent the day,
Brother wee haue done deeds of charity:
Made peace of emnity, faire loue of hate,
Betweene theſe ſwelling wrong inſcenſed peeres.
Glo. A bleſſed labour moſt ſoueraigne liege,
Amongſt this princely heape, if any here
By falſe inteligence, or wrong ſurmiſe,

Hold

Hold me a foe, if I vnwittingly or in my rage,
Haue thought committed that is hardly borne
By any in this preſence, I deſire
To reconcile me to his friendly peace,
Tis death to mee to be at emnity.
I hate it and deſire all good mens loue.
Firſt Maddam I intreat peace of you,
Which I purchace with my dutious ſeruice.
Of you my noble couſen Buckingham,
If euer any grudge were lod'gd betweene vs,
Of you my Lord Riuers, and Lord Gray of you,
That all without deſert haue fround on me,
Dukes, Earles, Lords, Gentilemen, indeed of all:
I do not know that Engliſhman aliue,
With whome my ſoule is any iotte at oddes,
More then the infant that is borne to night:
I thanke my God for my humility,
Qu. A holy day ſhall this be kept heereafter,
I would to God all ſtrife were well compounded,
My ſoueraigne leige I do beſeech your maieſty
To take our brother Clarence, to your grace.
Glo. Why Maddam, haue I offered loue for this,
To be thus ſcornd in this royall preſence?
Who knowes not that the noble Duke is dead?
You doe him iniury to ſcorne his coarſe. (he is?
Ri. Who knowes not he is dead, who knowes
Qu. All ſeeing heauen, what a world is this?
Buc. Looke I ſo pale Lord Dorſet as the reſt?
Dor. I my good Lord and noone in this preſence
But his red colour hath forſooke his cheekes.
Kin. Is Clarence dead? the order was reuerſt.
Glo. But He poore ſoule by our firſt order dide,
And that a winged Mercury did beare,
Some tardy cripple bore the couuntermaund,
That came too lagge to ſee him buried:
God graunt that ſome leſſe noble and leſſe loyall,
Neerer in bloody thoughts, but not in blood:
Deſerue not worſe then wretched Clarence did,
And yet goe currant from ſuſpition. Enter Darby.

Dar.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

Dar. A boone (my soueraigne) for my seruice done,
Kin. I pray thee peace my soule is full of sorow.
Dar. I will not rise vnlesse your highnesse graunt,
Kin. Then speake at once what it is thou demandest?
Dar. The forfeit (soueraigne) of my seruants life,
Who slew to day a ryotous gentleman
Lately attending one the Duke of Norffolke.
Kin. Haue I a Tongue to doome my brothers death,
And shall the same giue pardone to a slaue;
My brother slew no man his fault was thought,
And yet his punnishment was cruell death.
Who sued to me for him? who in my rage,
Kneeled at my feete and bad me be aduisde?
Who spake of brother-hood who of loue?
Who told me how the poore soule did forsake
The mighty Warwicke, and did fight for me?
Who told me in the field at Tewxbury,
When Oxford had me downe he rescued me,
And sayd deare brother liue and be a King?
Who told me when we both lay in the field,
Frozen almost to death, how he lappe me,
Euen in his owne armes, and gaue himselfe
All thin and naked to the numb cold night?
All this from my remembrance brutish wrath
Sinfully pluckt and not a man of you
Had so much grace to put it in my minde.
But when your carters or your waiting vassailes
Haue done a drunken slaughter, and defac'd
The precious Image of our deare redeemer,
You straight are one your knees for pardon, pardon,
And I vniustly too, must graunt it you.
But for my brother not a man would speake,
Nor I (vngratious) speake vnto my selfe,
For him poore soule: the proudest one you all
Haue beene beholding to him in his life:
Yet none of you would once pleade for his life:
Oh God I feare thy Iustice will take holde
On me, and you, and mine, and yours for this. (Exit.
Come Hastings helpe mee to my closet, oh poore Clarence

Glo.

Glo. This is the fruit of rawnesse: marke you not
How that the guiltie kindred of the Queene,
Lookt pale when they did heare of Clarence death:
Oh, they did vrge it still vnto the King,
God will reuenge it. But come lets in
To comfort Edward with our company. Exeunt.

Enter Dutches of Yorke, with Clarence Children.

Boy. Tell me good Granam, is our Father dead?
Dut. No Boy. (breast?
Boy. Why doe you wring your hands and beat your
And crie, Oh Clarence my vnhappy sonne?
Girle. Why doe you looke on vs and shake your head?
And call vs wretched, Orphanes, castawaies,
If that our noble father be aliue?
Dut. My pritty Cosens you mistake me much,
I do lament the sickenesse of the King:
As loth to loose him now your fathers dead:
It were lost labour to weepe for one that's lost.
Boy. Then Granam you conclude that he is dead,
The King my vncle is too blame for this:
God will reuenge it, whom I will importune
With dayly prayers all to that effect.
Dut. Peace children peace, the King doth loue you well,
Incapable and shallow inocents,
You cannot gesse who caused your fathers death.
Boy. Granam, we can: for my good Vncle Gloceſter
Told me, the King prouoked by the Queene,
Deuis'd impeachments to imprison him:
And when he told me so he wept,
And hugd me in his armes, and kindly kist my cheekes,
And bad me relie on him as one my father,
And he would loue me dearely as his childe.
Dut. Oh that deceite should steale such gentle shapes,
And with a vertuous vizard hide foule guile,
He is my sonne, yea and therein my shame:
Yet from my dugs he drew not this deceite.
Boy. Thinke you my Vncle did dissemble, Granam?
Dut. I Boy.
Boy. I cannot thinke it, harke, what noyse is this?

Enter

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

Enter the Queene.

Qu. Who shall hinder me to waile and weepe,
To chide my fortune, and torment my selfe?
Ile ioyne with blacke despaire against my seife,
And to my selfe become an enemy.

Dut. What meanes this scecane of rude impatience?

Qu. To make an act of tragicke violence,
Edward, my Lord, your sonne our King is dead.
Why grow the branches, now the roote is witherd
Why wither not the leaues, the sap being gone?
If you will liue, lament: if die be briefe:
That our swift winged soules may catch the Kings,
Or like obedient subiects, follow him
To his new kingdome of perpetuall rest.

Dut. Ah so much interest haue I in thy sorrow,
As I had title in my noble husband:
I haue bewept a worthy husbands death,
And liu'd by looking on his image:
But now two mirrours of his Princely semblance,
Are crakt in peeces by malignant death,
And I for comfort haue but one false glasse,
Which greeues me when I see my shame in him,
Thou art a widdow yet thou art a mother,
And hast the comfort of thy children left thee:
But death hath snatcht my children from mine armes,
And pluct two crutches from my feeble limmes,
Edward, and Clarence, O what cause haue I
Then, being but moity of my selfe,
To ouergo thy plaints and drowne thy cries?

Boy. Good aunt, you weept not for my fathers death,
How can we aide you with our kindreds teares?

Gerl. Our fatherlesse distresse was left vnmoand,
Your widowes dolours likewise be vnwept,

Qu. Giue me no helpe in lamentation,
I am not barren to bring foorth laments,
All springs reduce their currents to mine eyes,
That I being gouernd by the watry moone,
May send foorth plenteous teares to drowne the world:
Oh my husband for my heire Lord Edward,

Ambo.

Ambo. Oh for our father for our deare Lord Clarence.

Dut. Alas for both, both mine Edward and Clarence,

Qu. What stay had I but Edward, and is he gone?

Ambo. What stay had we but Clarence, and is he gone?

Dut. What stay had I but they and they are gone?

Qu. Was euer widow, had so deare a losse:

Ambo. Was euer Orphanes had so deere a losse?

Dut. Was euer mother had a dearer losse
Alas I am the mother of these moanes,
Their woes are parceld, mine are generall:
She for Edward weepes, and so do I:
I for a Clarence weepe, so doth not she:
These babes for Clarence weepe and so do I:
I for an Edward weepe, and so doe they,
Alas, you three on me three-fould distresst.
Powre all your teares, I am your sorrowes nurse,
And I will pamper it with lamentations. Enter Glocester

Glo. Maddam haue comfort, all of vs haue cause with others
To waile the dimming of our shining starre:
But none can cure their harmes by wailing them.
Maddam my mother I doe cry you mercy,
I did not see your Grace, humbly on my knee
I craue your blessing.

Dut. God blesse thee, and put meekenesse in thy minde,
Loue, charity, obedience, and true duty.

Glo. Amen, make me to die a good old man:
Thats the butt end of my mothers blessing,
I maruaile why her grace did leaue it out?

Buc. You cloudy Princes, and heart sorrowing Peares,
That beare this mutuall heauy loade of moane,
Now cheare each others in each others loue:
Though we haue spent our haruest for this King,
We are to reape the haruest of his sonne:
The broken rancour of your high swolne hearts,
But lastly splinted, knit, and ioynd together,
Must greatly be preseru'd, cherisht, and kept,
Me seemeth good that with some little traine,
Forthwith from Ludlow the young Prince be fetcht
Hither to London to be crownd our King.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

Glo. Then be it so : and goe wee to determine who they shall be that straight shall post to Ludlow?
Maddam and you my mother will you goe,
To giue your censures in this weighty businesse.
Ans. With all our hearts. Exeunt manet Glo. Buck.
Buc. My Lord, who euer Iourneyes to the Prince,
For Gods sake let not vs two be behinde :
For by the way Ile sort occasion,
As index to the story we lately talkt off,
To part the Queenes proud kindred from the King,
Glo. My other selfe, my counsels consistory
My Oracle, my prophet, my deere Cosen:
I like a child will goe by thy direction :
Towards Ludlow then for we will not stay behinde. Exit.

Enter two Citizens.

1. Neighbour well met, whither away so fast?
2. I promise you, I scarcely know my selfe.
1. Heare you the newes abroad?
2. I, that the King is dead.
1. Bat newes birlady, seldome comes better,
I feare, I feare twill prooue a troublesome world. Enter ano-
3. Cit. Good morrow neighbours.
Doth this newes hould of good King Edwards death?
1. It doth. 3. Then masters looke to see a troublous world.
1. No, no, by Gods grace his sonne shall raigne.
3. Wo to that land thats gouernd by a childe.
2. In him there is hope of gouernment,
That in his sonage, counsell vnder him,
And in his full ripened yeares, himselfe,
No doubt shall then, and till then gouerne well.
1. So stood the case when Harry the sixt was crownd at Paris, but at nine moneths old.
3. Stood the state so; no good my friend not so,
For then this land was famously inricht
With politicke graue counsell : then the King
Had vertuous Vncles to protect his Grace.
2. So hath this, both by the father and mother.
3. Better it were they all came by the father,
Or by the father there were none at all :

For

For emulation now, who shall be earnest,
Which touch vs all too neere if God preuent not
Oh full of danger is the Duke of Gloucester,
And the Queenes kindred haughtie and proude,
And were they to be rulde, and not rule,
This fickly land might solace as before.
2. Come, come, we feare the worst, all shall be well,
3. When clouds appeare, wise men put one their clokes.
When greate leaues fall, the winter is at hand :
When the sunne sets who doth not looke for night?
Vntimely stormes make them expect a dearth :
All men be well : but if God sort it so,
Tis more then we deserue, or I expect,
1. Truly the soules of men are full of dread :
Yea cannot almost reason with a man
That lookes not heauy and full of feare.
3. Before the time of change, still is it so:
By a deuine instinct mens mindes mistrust
Ensuing dangers as by proofe we see,
The waters swell before a boystrous storme :
But leaue it all to God : whether away?
2. We are sent for to the Iustice.
3. And so was I, ile beare you company. Exeunt

Enter Cardinals, Dutches of Yorke, Qu. young Yorke.

Car. Last night I heare they lay at Nothampton,
At stony-stratford will they be to night,
To morrow or next day will they be heare.
Dut. I long with all my heart to see the Prince,
I hope he is much growne since last I saw him.
Qu. But I heere no they say my sonne of Yorke
Hath ouertane him in growth.
Yor. I mother, but I would not haue it so.
Dut. Why my yong cousen it is good to grow.
Yor. Granam, on night as we did sit at supper,
My vncle Riuers talkt how I did grow
More then my brother, I quoth my Vncle Glo.
Small earbs haue grace, great weeds grow a pace :
And since me thinks I would not grow so fast,
Because sweete flowers are slow, and weedes make hast.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

Dut. Good faith, good faith: the saying did not hold,
In him that did obiect the same to thee:
He was the wretchedst thing when he was young,
So long a growing and so leasurely,
That if his were a rule he should be gracious.
Car. Why Maddam, so no doubt he is.
Dut. I hope so too but yet let mothers doubt.
Yor. Now by my troth if I had beene remembred,
I could haue giuen my Vncles grace a flout, (mine
That should haue neerer toucht his growth then he did
Dut. How my pretty Yorke: I pray thee let me heare it.
Yor. Marry they say, that my Vncle grew so fast,
That he could gnaw a crust at two houres old,
'Twas full two yeares ere I could get a tooth.
Granam, this would haue beene a pritty iest.
Dut. I pray thee pretty Yorke, who told thee so?
Yor. Granam, his Nurse.
Dut. Why, she was dead ere thou wert borne.
Yor. If twere not she, I cannot tell who told me.
Qu. A perilous boy: go too thou art too shrewd,
Car. Good Maddam be not angry with the child.
Qu. Pitchers hath eares. Enter Dorset.
Car. Heere comes your sonne, Lord Marques Dorset,
What newes Lord Marques?
Dor. Such newes my Lord, as griues me to vnfold.
Qu. How fares the Prince?
Dor. Well Madam, and in health:
Dut. What is the newes then?
Dor Lord Riuers, and Lord Gray, are sent to Pomfret,
With them Sir Thomas Vaughan, prisoners.
Dut. Who hath committed them?
Dor. The Mighty Dukes Gloucester and Buckingham.
Car. For what offence?
Dor. The summe of all I can, I haue disclosed:
Why or for what these Nobles were committed,
Is all vnknowne to me, my gracious Lady-
Qu. Ay me, I see the downefall of our House,
The Tiger now hath seaze the gentle Hinde:
Insulting tyrany begins to iet.

Vpon

Vpon the innocent and lawlesse throne:
Welcome destruction, death and massacre,
I see as in a Mappe the end of all.
Dut. Accursed and vnquiet wrangling daies,
How many of you haue mine eyes beheld?
My husband lost his life to get the crowne,
And often vp and downe my sonnes were tost,
For me to ioy and weepe their gaine and losse,
And being seated, and domesticke broyles
Cleane ouer blowne, themselues the conquerous,
Make war vpon themselues, blood against blood,
Selfe against selfe, O prepostorous
And frankticke outrage, end thy damned spleene,
Or let me die to looke on death no more.
Qu. Come, come, my boy, we will to Sanctuary.
Dut. Ile goe along with you.
Qu. You haue no cause.
Car. My gracious Lady, go.
And thither beare your treasure and your goods.
For my part, Ile resigne vnto your grace,
The Seale I keepe, and so betide to me,
As well I tender you, and all yours:
Come Ile conduct you to the Sanctuary. Exeunt.

The Trumpets sound Enter young prince, Duke of Gloucester, and Buckingham, Cardinall, &c.

Buc. Welcome sweete Prince to London to your chamber.
Glo. Welcome sweete Cosen my thoughts soueraigne:
The weary way hath made you melancholy.
Prin. No Vncle, but our crosses one the way.
Haue made it tedious, wearisome and heauy,
I want more Vncles heere to welcome me:
Glo. Sweete Prince, the vntainted vertue of your yeares,
Haue not yet diued into the worlds deceit:
Nor more can you distinguish of a man,
Then of his outward shew, which God he knowes,
Seldome or neuer iumpeth with the heart:
Those vncles which you want were dangerous,
Your grace attended to their sugred words,
But looke not on the poyson of their hearts:

God

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

God keepe you from them and from such false friends.
Prin. God keepe me from false friends, but they were none.
Glo. My Lord, the Maior of London comes to greete you.

Enter Lord Maire.

Lo.M. God blesse your Grace, with health and happy (daies.
Prin. I thanke you good my Lord, and thanke you all.
I thought my mother, and my brother Yorke,
Would long ere this haue met vs on the way:
Fie what a slug is Hastings that he comes not
To tell vs whether they will come or no, Enter L. Hast.
Buc. And in good time heere comes the sweating Lord,
Prin. Welcome my Lord, what, will our mother come?
Hast. On what occasion God he knowes not I:
The Queene, your mother, and your brother Yorke
Haue taken Sanctuary: The tender Prince
Would faine come with me to meete your Grace:
But by his mother was perforce with-held.
Buc. Fie, what an indirect and peeuish course
Is this of hers? Lord Cardinall, will your Grace
Perswade the Queene to send the Duke of Yorke
Vnto his Princely brother presently?
If she deny, Lord Hastings goe with them,
And from her iealous armes plucke him perforce.
Car. My Lo. of Buckingham, if my weake oratory
Can from his mother winne the Duke of Yorke
Anon expect him heere: but if she be obdurate
To milde intreaties, God forbid
We should infringe the holy priuiledge
Of blessed Sanctuary: not for all this Land,
Would I be guilty of so great a sinne.
Buc. You are too senceleſſe obstinate my Lord,
Too ceremonius and Traditionall:
Weigh it but with the greatnesse of his age,
You breake not Sanctuary in seazing him:
The benefit thereof is alwayes granted
To those whose dealings haue deserued the place,
And those who haue the wit to claime the place.
This Prince hath neither claimed it, nor deserued it,
And therefore in mine opinion cannot haue it.

Then

Then take him from thence that is not there,
You breake no priuiledge nor charter there:
Oft haue I heard of Sanctuaay men,
But sanctuary children neuer till now.
Car. My Lord, you shall ouer-rule my mind for once?
Come one Lord Hastings, will you goe with me?
Hast. I goe my Lord. Exit. Car. & Hast.
Prin. Good Lords make all the speedy haste you may.
Say Vncle Gloucester, if our brother come,
Where shall we soiourne till our Coronation?
Glo. Where it thinkst best vnto your royall selfe:
If I may counsell you some day or two
Your highnesse shall repose you at the Tower:
Then where you please as shall be thought most fit
For your best health and recreation.
Prin. I doe not like the Tower of any place,
Did Iulius Cæsar build that place my Lord?
Buc. He did my gracious Lord begin that place,
Which since succeeding ages haue redified.
Prin. Is it vpon record or else reported
Successiuely from age to age hee built it?
Buc. Vpon record my gracious Lord.
Prin. But say my Lord it were not registerd,
Me thinkes the truth should liue from age to age,
As twere retaild to all posteritie,
Euen to the generall ending day.
Glo. So wise, so young, they say do neuer liue long.
Prin. What say you Vncle?
Glo. I say with out Caracters fame liues long:
That like the formall vice, iniquity,
I moralize two meanings in one word.
Prin. That Iulius Cæsar was a famous man,
With what his valour did inrich his wit,
His wit set downe to make his valour liue:
Death makes no conquest of his conquerour,
For now he liues in fame, though not in life:
Ile tell you what my Cousen Buckingham.
Buc. What my gracious Lord?
Prin. And if I liue vntill I be a man.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

Ile winne our ancient right in France againe,
Or dye a ſouldier as I liu'd a King,
Glo. Short ſommers lightly haue a forward ſpring.

Enter young Yorke, Haſtings, Cardinall.

Buc. Now in good time, heere comes the Duke of Yorke,
Prin. Richard of Yorke how fares our noble brother?
Yor. Well my deare Lord: ſo muſt I call you now.
Prin. I brother to our griefe, as it is yours:
Too late hee died that might haue kept this title,
Which by his death hath loſt much maieſty.
Glo. How faires our couſen noble Lo. of Yorke.
Yor. I thanke you gentile vncle; O my Lord,
You ſaid that Idle weeds are faſt in growth;
The Prince my brother hath out growne me farre.
Glo. He hath my Lord.
Yor. and therefore is he idle?
Glo Oh my faire couſen I muſt not ſay ſo.
Yor. Then he is more beholding to you then I.
Glo. He may command me as my ſoueraigne,
But you haue power in me as in a kinſman.
Yor. I pray you vncle giue me this dagger.
Glo. My dagger little couſen with all my heart.
Prin. A begger brother?
Yor. Of my kind vncle that I know will giue
And being but a toy which is no gift, to giue,
Glo. A greater gift then that Ile giue my couſen.
Yor. A greater gift, O thats the ſword too it.
Glo. I gentle couſen were it light enough.
Yor. O then I ſee you will part but with light gifts,
In weightier things youle ſay a begegr nay.
Glo. It is to weighty for your grace to weare.
Yor. I weigh it lightly were it heauier.
Glo. What would you haue my weapon little Lo.
Yor. I would that I might thanke you as you call me.
Glo. How? Yor, Little.
Prin. My L. of Yorke will ſtill bee croſſe in talke:
Vncle your grace knowes how to beare with him.
Yor. You meane to beare me, not to beare with me;
Vncle, my brother mockes both you and me,

Becauſe

Becauſe that I am little like an Ape.
He thinkes that you ſhould beare me one your ſhoulders.
Buc. With what a ſharpe prouided wit hee reaſons,
To mitigate the ſcorne hee giue his vncle,
He pretely and aptly taunts himſelfe:
So cunning and ſo young is wonderfull.
Glo. My Lo. wilt pleaſe you paſſe along?
My ſelfe and my good couſen Buckingham,
Will to your mother, to intreat of her
To meet you at the Tower, and welcome you.
Yor. What will you goe vnto the Tower my Lord?
Prin. My Lord protector will haue it ſo.
Yor. I ſhall not ſleepe in quiet at the Tower.
Glo. Why what ſhould you feare?
Yor. Marry my vncle Clarence angry ghoſt:
My Granam told me he was murdred there.
Prin. I feare no vncles dead,
Glo. Nor none that liue, I hope.
Prin. And if they liue, I hope I neede not feare.
But come my L. with a heauy heart
Thinking on them, goe I vnto the Tower.

Exeunt, Prin, Yor, Haſt, Dor. manet, Biſh, Buc.

Buc. Thinke you my Lo, this little prating Yorke,
Was not incenced by his ſubtile mother,
To taunt and ſcorne you thus opprobriouſly?
Glo. No doubt, no doubt, O tis a perlous boy,
Bold, quicke, ingenious forward, capable,
He is all the mothers from the top to the toe,
Buc. Well let them reſt: come hither Catesby,
Thou art ſworne as deeply to effect what we intend,
As cloſely to conceale what we impart.
Thou knoweſt our reaſons vrgde vpon the way:
What thinkeſt thou, is it not an eaſie matter
To make William L. Haſtings of our minde,
For the inſtalment of this noble Duke,
In the ſeate royall of this famous Ile?
Cat. He for his fathers ſake ſo loues the Prince,
That he will not be wone to ought againſt him.
Buc. What thinkeſt thou then of Stanley, what will he?

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

Cat. He will doe all in all as Hastings doth.
Buc. Well then no more but this:
Go gentle Catesby, and as it were a farre off,
Sound Lord Hastings, how he stands affected
Vnto our purpose, if he be willing,
Encourage him and shew him all our reasons:
If he be leaden, Icie, cold, vnwilling,
Be thou so too: and so breake off your talke,
And giue vs notice of his inclination,
For we to morrow hold deuided counsels,
Wherein thy selfe shalt highly be employed.
Glo. Commend me to Lo. William, tell him Catesby
His ancient knot of dangerous aduersaries
To morrow are let blood at Pomfret Castle,
And bid my friends for ioy of this good newes,
Giue gentile Mis Shore one gentile kisse the more.
Buc. Good Catesby effect this businesse soundly.
Cat. My good Lords both: with all the heede I may.
Glo. Shall wee heere from you Catesby ere wee sleepe?
Cat. You shall my Lord. Exit Catesby.
Glo. At Crosby place, there shall you finde vs both.
Buc. Now my Lord what shall we doe if we perceiue
William Lord Hastings will not yeeld to our complots?
Glo. Chop off his head man, somewhat we will doe,
And looke when I am King, claime thou of mee
The Earledome of Herford and the mooueables,
Whereof the King my brother stood possest.
Buc. Ile claime that promise at your hands.
Glo. And looke to haue it yeelded with willingnesse.
Come let vs sup betimes, that afterwards
we may digest our complots in some forme. Exeunt.

Enter a messenger to Lord Hastings.

Mess. What ho my Lord.
Hast. Who knocks at the doore?
Mess. A messenger from the Lord Stanley. Enter Lo. Hast.
Hast. Whats a clocke?
Mess. Vpon the stroke of foure.
Hast. Cannot thy master sleepe the tedious nights?
Mess. So it should seeme by that I haue to say:

First

First he commends him to your noble Lordship.
Hast. And then. Mes. And then he sends you word,
He dreamt to night, the Boare had cast his helme:
Besides he sayes, there are two counsels held,
And that many be determined at the one,
Which may make you and him to rew at the other,
Therefore he sends to know your Lordships pleasure
If presently you will take horse with him,
And with all speedy post into the North,
To shun the danger that his soule diuines.
Hast. Good fellow goe returne vnto my Lord;
Bid him not feare the separated counsels:
His honour and my selfe are at the one,
And at the other is my seruant Catesby:
Where nothing can proceede that toucheth vs,
Whereof I shall not haue intelligence.
Tell him his feares are shallow wanting instancy.
And for his dreames I wonder he is so fond,
To trust the mockery of vnquiet slumbers.
To flie the Boare before the Boare persues vs,
Were to incence the Boare to follow vs,
And make pursuite where he did meane to chase:
Go bid thy master rise and come to me,
And wee will both together to the Tower,
Where he shall see the Boare will vse vs kindly,
Mess. My gracious Lord Ile tell him what you say. Exit.

Enter Catesby to Lord Hastings.

Cat. Many good morrowes to my noble Lord.
Hast. Good morrow Catesby: you are early stirring,
What newes, what newes, in this our tottering state?
Cat. It is a reeling world indeede my Lord,
And I beleeue twill neuer stand vpright
Till Richard weare the Garland of the Realme.
Hast. Who? weare the Garland? doest thou meane the Crowne?
Cat. I my good Lord.
Hast. Ile haue this crowne of mine, cut from my shoulders,
Ere I will see the crowne so foule misplaste:
But canst thou geesse that he doth ayme at it?
Cat. Vpon my life my L. and hopes to finde you forward

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

Vpon his party for the gaine there of,
And therevpon he ſends you this good newes:
That this ſame very day, your enemies,
The kindred of the Queene, muſt die at Pomfret.
Haſt. Indeede I am no mourner for this newes,
Becauſe they haue beene ſtill mine enemies:
But that Ile giue my voyce on Richards ſide,
To barre my maſters heires in true diſcent,
God knowes I will not do it to the death.
Cat. God keepe your Lordſhip in that gracious minde,
Haſt. But I ſhall laugh at this a twelmonth hence,
That they who brought me to my maſters hate,
I liue to looke vpon their tragedy:
I tell thee Catesby. Cat. What my Lord?
Haſt. Ere a Fort-night make me elder,
Ile ſend ſome packing that yet thinke not one it.
Cat. Tis a vile thing to die my gracious Lord
When men are vnprepard, and looke not for it.
Haſt. O monſtrous, monſtrous, and ſo fals it out
With Riuers, Vaughan, Gray, and ſo twill doo
With ſome men elſe, who thinke themſelues as ſafe
As thou, and I, who as thou knowſt are deare
To Princely Richard, and to Buckingham.
Cat. The Princes both make high account of you,
For they account his head vpon the bridge.
Haſt. I know they doe and I haue well deſerued it.

Enter Lord Stanley.

What my L. where is your Boare-ſpeare man?
Feare you the Boare, and goe you ſo vnprouided?
Stan. My L. good morrow: good morrow Catsby:
You may ieſt one, but by the holy Roode,
I doe not like theſe ſeuerall counſels I.
Haſt. My L. I hold my life as deare as you doe yours,
And neuer in my life I doe proteſt,
Was it more precious to me then it is now,
Thinke you but that I know our ſtate ſecure,
I would be ſo triumphant as, I am?
Stan. The Lords of Pomfret when they rode from London,
Were iocund, and ſuppoſde their ſtates was ſure,

And

And indeede had no cauſe to miſtruſt:
But yet you ſee how ſoone the day orecaſt,
This ſuddaen ſcab of rancor I miſdoubt,
Pray God I ſay, I proue a needleſſe coward,
But come my Lord ſhall we to the Tower?
Haſt. I go: but ſtay, heare you not the newes?
This day thoſe men you talke of are beheaded.
Stan. They for their truth might better weare their heads,
Then ſome that haue accuſed them weare their hats:
But come my L. let vs away. Exit. L. Stanley, & Cat.
Haſt. Go you before Ile follow preſently.

Enter Haſtings a Purſiuant.

Haſt. Well met Haſtings, how goes the world with thee?
Pur. The better that it pleaſe your good Lordſhip to ask?
Haſt. I tell thee fellow, tis better with me now,
Then when I met thee laſt where now wee meete
Then was I going priſoner to the Tower,
By the ſuggeſtion of the Queenes alies:
But now I tell thee (keepe it to thy ſelfe)
This day thoſe enemyes are put to death,
And I in better ſtate then euer I was.
Pur. God hold it to your Honours good content.
Haſt. Gramercy Haſtings, hold ſpend thou that.

He giues him his purſe.

Pur. God ſaue your Lordſhip. Exit. Pur. Enter a Prieſt.
Haſt. What Sir Iohn, you are well met:
I am beholding to you for your laſt dayes exerciſe:
Come the next Sabboth, and I will content you. He whiſpers

Enter Buckingham. (in his eare.

Buc. How now Lord Chamberlaine, what talking with a
Your friends at Pomfret they doe need the Prieſt. (prieſt.
Your Honour hath no ſtriuing worke in hand.
Haſt. Good faith, and when I met this holy man,
Thoſe men you talke of, came into my minde:
What, go you to the Tower my Lord?
Buc. I do, but long I ſhall not ſtay,
I ſhall returne before your Lordſhip thence,
Haſt. Tis like enough for I ſtay dinner there.
Buc. And ſupper too although thou knoweſt it not:

Come

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

Come shall wee goe along?

Enter Sir Richard Ratliffe, with the Lord Riuers Gray and Vaughan, prisoners,

Rat. Come bring forth the prisoners.

Riu. Sir Richard Ratliffe, let me tell thee this:
To day thou shalt be holde a subiect die,
For truth, for duty, and for loyalty.

Gray. God keepe the Prince from all the packe of you:
A knot you are of damned blood-suckers.

Riu. O Pomfret, Pomfret. O thou bloody prison,
Fatall and ominous to noble Peares:
Within the guilty closure of thy walles
Richard the second heere was hackt to death:
And for more slaunder to thy dismall soule,
We giue thee vp our guiltlesse blood to drinke.

Gray. Now Margrets curse it falne vpon our heads,
For standing by, when Richard stabd her sonne.

Riu. Then curst she Hastings, then curst she Buckingham,
Then curst she Richard. O remember God,
To heare her prayers for them as now for vs,
And for my sister and her princely sonne:
Be satisfied deare God with our true bloods.
Which as thou knowest vniustly must be spilt.

Rat. Come, come, dispatch, the limit of your liues is out.

Riu. Come Gray, come Vaugham, let vs all imbrace
And take our leaues vntill we meete in heauen. Exeunt.

Enter the Lords to counsell.

Hast. My Lords at once, the cause why wee are met,
Is to determine of the Coronation.
In Gods name say when is this royall day?

Buc. Are all things fitting for that royall time?

Dar. It is, and let but nomination.

Bish. To morrow then, I gesse a happy time.

Buc. Who knowes the Lord Protectors minde herein?
Who is most inward with the noble Duke? his mind

Bish. Why you my L. me thinks you should soonest know

Buc. Who I my Lord? we know each others faces:
But for our hearts, he knowes no more of mine,
Then I of yours: nor I no more of his, then you of mine,
Lord

Lord Hastings, you and he are neere in loue.

Hast. I thanke his grace, I know he loues me well:
But for his purpose in the Coronation
I haue not sounded him, nor he deliuered
His graces pleasure any way therein:
But you my L. may name the time,
And in the Dukes behalfe Ile giue my voyce,
Which I presume he will take in good part.

Bish. Now in good time heere comes the Duke himselfe.

Enter Gloucester.

Glo. My noble L. and cousens all good morrow,
I haue beene long a sleepe, but now I hope
My absence doth neglect no great designes,
Which by my presence might haue beene concluded.

Buc. Had not you come vpon your kew my Lord,
William L. Hastings had now pronounst your part:
I meane your voyce from crowning of the King.

Glo. Then my L. Hastings, no man might be bolder,
His Lordship knowes me well, and loues me well.

Hast. I thanke your grace.

Glo. My Lord of Elie.

Bish. My Lord.

Glo. When I was last in Holborne,
I saw good strawberies in your garden there,
I doe beseech you send for some of them.

Bish. I goe my Lord.

Glo. Cousen Buckingham, a word with you:
Catesby hath sounded Hastings in our businesse,
And findes the testy gentleman so hote,
As he will loose his head ere giue consent,
His maisters sonne as worshipfull he termes it,
Shall loose the royalty of Englands throane.

Buc. Withdraw you hence my L. Ile follow you. Ex. Glo.

Dar. We haue not yet set downe this day of triumph.
To morrow in mine opinion is too soone:
For I my selfe am not so well prouided,
As else I would be, were the day prolonged.

Enter the Bishop of Elie.

Bish. Where is my L. Protector, I haue sent for these strawberries.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

Hast. His grace lookes cheresully and smooth to day,
Thers some conceite or other liks him well,
When he doth bid good morrow with such a spirit,
I thinke there is neuer a man in Christendome,
That can lesser hide his loue or hate then hee:
For by his face straight shall you know his heart.
Dar. What of his heart perceiue you in his face,
By any likelihood he shewed to day?
Hast. Marry that with no man here he is offended,
For if he were, he would haue shewde it in his face.
Dar. I pray God he be not, I say.

Enter Gloceſter.

Glo. I pray you all, what do they deserue
That do conspire my death with diuelish plots
Of damned witchcraft, and that haue preuaild
Vpon my body with their hellish charmes?
Hast. The tender loue I beare your grace my Lord
Makes me most forward in this noble presence,
To doome the offenders whatsoeuer they be:
I say my Lord they haue deserued death,
Glo. Then be your eyes the witnesse of this ill,
See how I am bewitcht, behold mine arme
Is like a blasted sapling withered vp.
This is that Edwards wife, that monstrous witch,
Consorted with that harlot strumpet Shore,
That by their witchcraft thus haue marked me.
Hast. If they haue done this thing my gracious Lord.
Glo. If thou Protector of this damned strumpet,
Talst thou me of ifs? thou art a traitor.
Off with his head: Now by Saint Paul,
I will not dine to day I swere,
Vntill I see the same, some see it done:
The rest that loue me, come and follow me. Exeunt, manet
Hast. Wo, wo for England, not a whit for me. Ca, with Hast.
For I too fond might haue preuented this:
Stanley did dreame the boare did race his helme,
But I disdaind it and did scorne to flie,
Three times to day my footecloth horse did stumble,
And started when he lookt vpon the Tower,

As loth to beare me to the slaughter-house.
Oh now I warrant the Priest that spake to me,
I now repent I told the Pursiuant,
As twere triumphing at mine enemies,
How they at Pomfret bloodily were butcherd,
And I my selfe secure in grace and fauour,
Oh Margret, Margret: now thy heauie curse
Is lightened on poore Hastings wretched head.
Cat. Dispatch my Lord, the Duke would bee at dinner:
Make a short shrift he longs to see your head.
Hast. O momentary state of worlly men,
Which we more hunt for, then for the grace of heauen:
Who builds his hopes in the aire of your faire lookes,
Liues like a drunken sayler on a mast,
Ready with euery nod to tumble downe
Into the fatall bowels of the deepe.
Come leade me to the blocke, beare him my head.
They smile at me, that shortly shall be dead Exeunt.

Enter Duke of Gloceſter, and Buckingham, in armour.

Glo. Come cousen, canst thou quake & change thy coloure
Murther thy breath in middle of a word,
And then begin againe and stop againe,
As if thou wert distraught and madd with terror,
Buc. Tut feare not me,
I can counterfeit the deepe Traiedian,
Speake and looke backe and prie on euery side;
Intending deepe suspition gastly lookes
Are at my seruice like inforced smiles,
And both are ready in their offices
To grace my stratagems. Enter Maior,
Glo. Here comes the maior.
Buc. Let me alone to entertaine him. Lord maior
Glo. Looke to the drawbridge there.
Buc. The reason we haue sent for you.
Glo. Catesby ouer looke the walles.
Buc. Harke, I heare a drumme,
Glo. Looke backe defend thee, here are enemies.
Buc. God and our inocency defend vs
Glo. O, O, be quiet, it is Catesby.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

Enter Catesby with Hastings head.

Cat. Heere is the head of that ignoble traitor,
The dangerous and vnsuspected Hastings.

Glo. So deare I lou'd the man, that I must weepe:
I tooke him for the plainest harmelesse man,
That breathed vpon this earth a Christian:
Looke ye my Lord Maior:
I made him my booke wherein my soule recorded
The History of all her secret thoughts:
So smooth he daub'd his vice with shew of vertue,
That his apparent open guilt omitted:
I meane his conuersation with Shores wife,
He laid from all attainder of suspect.

Buc. Well, well, he was the couertst sheltred traitor
That euer liu'd, would you haue imagined,
Or almost beleue, were it not by great preseruation
We liue to tell it you? the subtile traitor
Had this day plotted in the counsell house,
To murder me and my good Lord Gloucester.

Ma. What had he so?

Glo. What thinke ye, we are Turkes or Infidels,
Or that wee should against the course of Law,
Proceede thus rashly to the villaines death,
But that the extreame perrill of the case,
The peace of England, and our persons safety
Inforst vs to this execution?

Ma. Now faire befall you, he deserued his death,
And you my good L. both haue well proceeded,
To warne false traitors from the like attempts:
I neuer lookt for better at his hands,
After he once fell in with Mistris Shore.

Glo. Yet had not we determined he should die,
Vntill your Lordship came to see his death,
Which now the longing hast of these our friends
Some what against our meaning haue preuented,
Because my Lord, we would haue had you heard
The traitor speake, and timerously confesse
The manner, and the purpose of his treason,
That you might well haue signified the same.

Vnto

Vnto the Citizens, who happily may
Misconsture vs in him, and waile his death.

Ma. My good L. your gracious word shall serue,
As well as I had seene or heard him speake:
And doubt you not right noble Princes both,
But Ile acquaint your dutious Citizens
With all your iust proceedings in this case.

Glo. And to that end we wish your Lordship here,
To auoyd the carping censures of the world.

Buc. But since you came too late of our intents,
Yet witnesse what we did intend, and so my Lord adue.

Glo. After, after cousen Buckingham. Exit Maior.
The Maior towards Guild-hall hies him in all post,
There at your meetest aduantage of the time,
Inferre the bastardy of Edwards children:
Tell them how Edward put to death a Citizen,
Only for saying he would make his sonne
Heire to the Crowne, meaning (indeede) his house,
Which by the signe thereof was tearmed so.
Moreouer, vrge his hatefull luxury,
And beastiall appetite in change of lust,
Which stretched to their seruants, daughters, wiues,
Euen where his lustfull eye, or sauage heart,
Without controle lifted to make his prey:
Nay for a need thus farre come neare my person,
Tell them, when that my mother went with child
Of that vnsatiat Edward, noble Yorke,
My princely father then had warres in France,
And by iust computation of the time,
Found, that the issue was not his begot,
Which well appeared in his lineaments,
Being nothing like the noble Duke my father:
But touch this sparingly as it were farre off,
Because you know my Lord, my brother liues.

Buc. Feare not my Lord, Ile play the Orator
As if the golden fee for which I pleade,
Were for my selfe.

Glo. If you thriue well, bring them to Baynards Castle,
Where you shall finde me well accompanied

With

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

With reuerend fathers and well learned Bishops.
Buc. About three or foure a clocke looke to heare
What newes Guild-hall affordeth, and so my Lord farewell.
Glo. Now will I in to take some priuie order (Ex. Buc.
To draw the Brates of Clarence, out of sight,
And to giue notice that no manner of person
At any time haue recourse vnto the Princes. Exit.

Enter a Scriuener with a paper in his hand.

This is the indictment of the good Lord Hastings,
Which in a set hand fairely is ingross'd,
That it may be this day red ouer in Pauls:
And marke how well the sequell hangs together,
Eleuen houres I spent to writ it ouer,
For yesternight by Catesby was it brought me,
The president was full as long a doing,
And yet within these fiue houres liu'd Lord Hastings
Vntainted, vnexamined: free at liberty:
Here's a good world the while, Why who's so grosse
That sees not this palpable deuice?
Yet who so blind but sayes he sees it not?
Bad is the world and all will come to nought,
When such bad dealing must be seene in thought: Exit.

Enter Gloucester at one doore, Buckingham at another.

Glo. How now my Lord what sayes the Citizens?
Buc. Now by the holy mother of our Lord,
The Citizens are mumme and speake not a word.
Glo. Toucht you the bastardy of Edwards Children?
Buc. I did: with the insatiate greedinesse of his desires,
His tyranny for trifles: his owne bastardy,
As being got your father then in France:
Withall I did inferre your lineaments,
Being the right Idea of your father:
Both in forme and nobleneſse of minde:
Layd vpon all your victories in Scotland:
Your Discipline in warre, wisedome in peace:
Your bounty, vertue, faire humilitie:
Indeede left nothing fitting for the purpose
Vntouch't or sleightly handled in discourse:
And when my oratory grew to end,

I bad

I bad them that loues their Countries good,
Cry God saue Richard Englands royall King.
Glo. A, and did they so?
Buc. No so God helpe me,
But like dumbe statues or breathlesse stones,
Gazde each on other and lookt deadly pale:
Which when I saw, I reprehended them:
And askt the Maior what meanes this wilful silence?
His answere was the people were not wont
To be spooke too, but by the Recorder.
Then he was vrgde to tell my tale againe:
Thus saith the Duke, thus hath the Duke inferd:
But nothing spake in warrant from himselfe:
When he had done, some followers of mine owne
At the lower end of the hall, hurled vp their caps,
And some ten voyces cryed, God saue King Richard
Thankes noble Citizens and friends quoth I,
This generall applause and louing shoute,
Argues your wisedome and your loue to Richard:
And so brake off and came away.
Glo. what tongueleſse blockes were they, would they not (speake?
Buc. No by my troth my Lord,
Glo. Will not the Mayor then, and his brethren come?
Buc. The Mayor is heere: and intend some feare,
Be not spoken withall, but with mighty suite:
And looke you get a prayer booke in your hand,
And stand betwixt two Church-men good my Lord,
For on that ground Ile build a holy descant:
Be not easie wonne to our request:
Play the maydes part, say no, but take it.
Glo. Feare not me, if thou canst pleade as well for them,
As I can say nay to thee for my selfe,
No doubt weele bring it to a happy issue.
Buc. you shall see what I can do, get you vp to the leads, Ex.
Now my Lord Maior, you dance attendance heere,
I thinke the Duke will not be spoken withall. Enter Catesby
Here comes his seruant: how now Catesby, what sayes hee?
Cat. My Lord he doth intreat your grace
To visit him to morrow, or next day:

He

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

He is within and two reuerend Fathers,
Diuinely bent to meditation,
And in no worldly sute would he be mou'd,
To draw him from his holy exercise.
Buc. Returne good Catesby to thy Lord againe,
Tell him my selfe, the Maior and Citizens,
In deepe designes and matters of great moment,
No lesse importing them then our generall good,
Are come to haue some conference with his grace.
Cat. Ile tell him what you say my Lord. Exit.
Buc. A ha my Lord, this Prince is not an Edward:
He is not lulling on a leawd day bed,
But on his knees at meditation:
Not dallying with a brace of Curtizans,
But meditating with two deepe Diuines:
Not sleeping to ingrosse his idle body,
But praying to inrich his watchfull soule,
Happy were England, would this gracious prince
Take on himselfe the soueraignety thereon,
But sure I feare we shall neuer winne him to it.
Ma. Marry God forbid his grace should say vs nay.

Enter Catesby.

Buc. I feare he will, how now Catesby,
What sayes your Lord?
Cat. My Lord he wonders to what end you haue assembled
Such troopes of Citizens to speake with him,
His grace not being warnd thereof before:
My lord, he feares you meane no good to him.
Buc. Sory I am my noble cousen should
Suspect me that I meane no good to him,
By heauen I come in perfect loue to him,
And so once more returne and tell his grace:
When holy and deuout religious men,
Are at their beads, tis hard to daw them hence,
So sweete is zealous contemplation.

Enter Rich, and two Bishops aloft.

Mai. See where he stands betweene two Clergimen.
Buc. Two props of vertue for a Christian Prince:
To stay him from the fall of vanity,

Famous

Famous Plantagenet, most gracious prince,
Lend fauorable eares to my request:
And pardon vs the interruption
Of thy deuotion and right Christian zeale.
Glo. My Lord, there needs no such Apologie,
I rather doe beseech you pardon me,
Who earnest in the seruice of my God,
Neglect the visitation of my friends:
But leauing this, what is your graces pleasure?
Buc. Euen that I hope which pleaseth God aboue,
And all good men of this vngouernd Ile.
Glo. I doe suspect, I haue done some offence,
That seeme disgracious in the Cities eyes,
And that you come to reprehend my ignorance:
Buc. You haue my Lord: would it please your grace
At our intreaties to amend that fault.
Glo. Else wherefore breath I in a Christian land?
Buc. Then know it is your fault that you resigne
The Supreame Seate, the throane maiesticall,
The Scepter office of your Ancestors.
The lineall glory of your royall House,
To the corruption of a blemisht stocke:
Whilest in the mildenesse of your sleepie thoughts,
Which heere we waken to your Countries good:
This noble Ile doth want his proper limbes,
Her face defac't with scars of infamy,
And almost shouldred in this swallowing gulph
Of blinde forgetfullnesse and darke oblivion:
Which to recouer we hartily solicite
Your gracious selfe to take on you the soueraignty thereof,
Not as Protector, Steward, Substitute,
Nor lowly factor for an others gaine?
But as successiuely from blood to blood,
Your right of birth your Emperie, your owne:
For this consorted with the Citizens,
Your worshipfull and very louing friends,
And by there vehement instigation,
In this iust sute come I to mone your Grace.
Glo. I know not whither to depart in silence,

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

Or bitterly to speake in your reproofe,
Best fitteth my degree or your condition:
Your loue deserues my thankes, but my desert
Vnmeritable shunes your high request,
First if all obstacles were cut away,
And that my path were euen to the crowne,
As my right reuenew and due by birth,
Yet so much is my pouerty of spirit,
So mighty and so many my defects,
As I had rather hide me from my greatnesse,
Being a Barke to brooke no mighty sea,
Then in my greatenesse couet to be hid,
And in the vapour of my glory smothered:
But God be thanked there's no neede for me,
And much I neede to helpe you if neede were,
The royall tree hath left vs royall fruite,
Which mellowed by the stealing houres of time,
Will well become the seate of maiesty;
And make no doubt vs happy by his raigne,
On him I lay, what you would on me:
The right and fortune of his happy starres,
Which God defend that I should wring from him.
Buc. My Lord this argues conscience in your grace
But the respects thereof are nice and triuiall,
All circumstances well cosidered.
You say that Edward is your brothers sonne,
So say we too, but not by Edwards wife:
For first he was contracted to Lady Lucie.
Your mother liues, a witnesse to that vow,
And afterwards by substitute betrothed
To Bona sister to the King of France,
These both put by a poore peticioner,
A care-crazd mother of many children,
A beauty-waining and distressed widdow,
Euen in the afternoone of her best dayes,
Made price and purchace of his lustfull eye,
Seduce the pitch and height of all his thoughts,
To base declension loathed bigamie,
By her in this vnlawfull bed he got,

This Edward, whom our manners terme the Prince:
More bitterly could expostulate,
Saue that for reuerence to some aliue
I gine a sparing limet to my tongue:
Then good my Lord, take to your royall selfe,
This proffered benefit of dignity?
If not to bless vs and the land withall.
Yet to draw out your royall flocke,
From the corruption of a busie time,
Vnto a lineall true deriued course.
May. Do, good my Lord, your citizens entreat you
Cat. O make them ioyfull, grant their lawfull sute.
Glo. Alas, why should you heape those cares on me
I am vnfit for state and dignity:
I doe beseech you take it not amisse,
I cannot, nor I will not yeeld to you.
Buc. If you refuse it as in loue and zeale,
Loth to depose the childe your brothers sonne,
As well we know your tenderneste of heart,
And gentle kind effeminate remorse,
Which we haue noted in you to youre kin,
And equally indeed to all estates,
Yet whether you except our sute or no,
Your brothers sonne shall neuer raigne our King,
But we will plant some other in the throne,
To the disgrace and downefall of your house:
And in this resolution here I leaue you,
Come Citizens, zounds, Ile intreat no more.
Glo. O doe not sweare my Lord of Buckingham.
Cat. Call them againe, my Lord and accept their sute.
Ano. Do good my Lord, least all the land doe rew it.
Glo. Would you enforce me to a world of care?
Well call them againe, I am not made of stones,
But penetrable to your kind intreats,
Albeit against my conscience and my soule,
Cousen of Buckingham, and you sage graue men,
Since you will buckle fortune on My backe,
To beare the burthen whether I will or no,
I must haue patience to endure the loade,

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

But if blacke ſcandall or ſo foule fac't reproach
Attend the ſequell of your impoſition,
Your meere inforcement ſhall acquittance me
From all the impure blots and ſtaines thereof,
For God he knowes and you may partly ſee,
How farre I am from the deſire thereof.
May. God bleſſe your grace, we ſee it, and will ſay it.
Glo. In ſaying ſo, you ſhall but ſay the truth.
Buc. Then I ſalute you with this kingly title:
Long liue King Richard, Englands royall King.
May. Amen.
Buc. To morrow will it pleaſe you to be crown'd?
Glo. Euen when you will, ſince you will haue it ſo,
Buc. To morrow then we will attend your grace.
Glo. Come let vs to our holy taske againe:
Farewell good couſen, farewell gentle friends. Exeunt.

Enter Queene mother, Dutches of Yorke, Marques Dorſet at one doore, Dutches of Gloceſter at another doore.

Dut. Who meetes vs heere my Neece Plantagenet?
Qu. Sifter well met, whither away ſo faſt?
Dut. Glo. No farther then the Tower, and as I gueſſe,
Vpon the like deuotion as your ſelues,
To gratulate the tender princes there.
Qu. Kind ſiſter thankes weele enter all together.

Enter the Lieutenant of the Tower.

And in good time here the Lieutenant comes.
M. Lieutenant, pray you by your leaue,
How fares the Prince?
Lieu. Well Maddam and in health: but by your leaue,
I may not ſuffer you to viſit him,
The King hath ſtraightly charged to the contrary.
Qu. The King, why, who's that?
Lieu. I cry you mercy I meane the Lord Protector.
Qu. The Lord protect him from that Kingly title:
Hath he ſet bonds betwixt there loue and me:
I am their mother who ſhould keepe me from them?
I am their father, mother, and will ſee them.
Dut. Glo. Their Aunt I am in law, in loue their mother:

Then feare not thou, Ile beare thy blame,
And take thy office from thee one my perill.
Lieu. I doe beſeech your graces all to pardon me:
I am bound by oath, I may not doe it.

Enter Lord Stanley.

Stan. Let me but meete your Ladies at an houre hence,
And Ile ſalute your grace of Yorke, as mother:
And reuerent looker one, of two faire Queenes.
Come Madam, you muſt goe with me to Weſtminſter,
There to be crowned Richards royall Queene.
Qu. O cut my lace in ſunder, that my pent heart
May haue ſome ſcope to beate, or elſe I ſound
With this dead liking newes.
Dor. Madam haue comfort, how fares your grace?
Qu. O Dorſet, ſpeake not to me, get thee hence,
Death and deſtruction dogge thee at the heeles,
Thy mothers name is ominous to children,
If thou wilt ouer ſtrip death, goe croſſe the Seas,
And liue with Richmond from the race of hell,
Goe hie thee, hie thee, from this ſlaughter-houſe,
Leaſt thou increace the number of the dead,
And make me die the thrall of Margrets curſe,
Nor mother, wife, nor Englands counted Queene.
Sta. Full of wiſe care is this your counſell Madam,
Take all the ſwift aduantage of the time,
You ſhall haue letters from me to my ſonne,
To meete you on the way and welcome you,
Be not taken tardy by vnwiſe delay.
Dut, Yor. O ill diſperſing winde of miſery,
O my accurſed wombe the bed of death,
A Cokatrice hath thou hatcht to the world,
Whoſe vnauoyded eye is murtherous.
Stan. Come Madam, I in all haſt was ſent for.
Dut. And I in all vnwillingneſſe will goe,
I would to god that the incluſiue verge
Of goulden mettall that muſt round my browe,
Were red hotte ſteele to ſeare me to the braine,
Annoynted let me be with deadly poyſon,
And die ere men can ſay God ſaue the Queene.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

Qu. Alas poore ſoule, I enuie not thy glory,
To feede my humor, wiſh thy ſelfe no harme.
Dut. Glo. No, when he that is my husband now,
Came to me I followed Henries courſe,
When the blood was ſcarſe waſht from his hands,
Which iſſued from my other angell husband,
And that dead ſaint, which then I weeping followed,
O, When I ſay, I lookt on Richards face,
This was my wiſh, be thou quoth I accurſt,
For making me ſo yong ſo old a widow.
And when thou wedſt, let ſorrow haunt thy bed,
And be thy Wife if any be ſo badde
As miſerable by the death of thee.
As thou haſt made me by my deare Lords death,
Loe euen I can repeate this curſe againe,
Euen in ſo ſhort a ſpace, my womans heart
Croſly grew captiue to his hony words,
And prou'd the ſubiects of mine owne ſoules curſe,
Which euer ſince hath kept mine eyes from ſleepe,
For neuer yet, one houre in his bed,
Haue I enioyed the golden dew of ſleepe,
But haue bene waked by his timerous dreames,
Beſides he hates me for my father Warwicke,
And will ſhortly be rid of me.
Qu. Alas poore ſoule, I pitty thy complaints.
Dut. Glo. No more then from my ſoule I mourne for yours
Qu. Farewell, thou woefull welcomer of glory.
Dut. Glo. Adue poore ſoule thou takeſt thy leaue of it.
Dut, Yor. Go thou to Richmond & good fortune guide thee
Go thou to Richard, and good Angels guard thee,
Go thou to ſanctuary, good thoughts poſſeſſe thee,
I to my graue where peace and reſt lie with me,
Eighty old yeares of ſorrow haue I ſeene,
And each houres ioy wrackt with a weeke of teene.

The trumpets ſound, Enter Richard crowned, Buckingham, Catesby, with other Nobles

King. Stand all a-part. Couſen of Buckingham, Giue me thy hand: Here he aſcends his throne.

Thus high by thy aduice
And thy aſſiſtance is King Richard ſeated:
But ſhall we were theſe honours for a day?
Or ſhall they laſt and we reioyce in them?
Buc. Still liue they, and foreuer may they laſt.
King. O Buckingham now I doe play the touch,
To try if thou be currant gold indeede:
Yong Edward liues: thinke now what I would ſay
Buc. Say on my gracious ſoueraigne.
King Why Buckingham, I ſay I would be King.
Buc. Why ſoe you are my thrice renowned Liege,
King. Ha: am I King? tis ſo, but Edward liues.
Buc. True noble Prince.
King. O bitter conſequence,
That Edward ſtill ſhould liue true noble Prince,
Couſen thou wert not wont to be ſo dull,
Shall I be plaine I wiſh the baſtards dead,
And I would haue it ſuddainly performde,
What ſaieſt thou? ſpeake ſuddenly, be briefe,
Buc. Your grace may doe your pleaſure.
King. Tut, tut, thou art all yce, thy kindneſſe freezeth,
Say, haue I thy conſent that they ſhall die?
Buc. Giue me ſome breath my Lord,
Before I poſitiuely ſpeake herein:
I will reſolue your grace imediatlie.
Cat. The King is angry ſee he bites his lip.
King. I will conuerſe with iron wittie fooles,
And vnreſpectiue Boyes, none are for me
That looke into me with conſiderate eyes:
Boy, high reaching Buckingham growes circumſpect.
Boy. Lord.
King. Knowſt thou not any whome corrupting gold
Would tempt vnto a cloſe exploit of death.
Boy. My Lord, I know a diſcontented Gentleman,
Whoſe humble meanes matcht not his haughty minde,
Gold were as good as twenty Orators,
And will no doubt tempt him to any thing.
King. What is his name?
Boy. His name my Lord, is Terrill.

King

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

King. Goe call him hither presently.
The deepe resoluing witty Buckingham,
No more shall be the neighbour to my counsell,
Hath he so long held out with me vntirde,
And stops he now for breath?

Enter Darby.

How now what newes with you?
Dar. My Lord I heare the Marquesse Dorset
Is fled to Richmond, in those parts beyond the seas
Where he abides.
King. Catesby. Cat. My Lord.
King. Rumor is abroad
That Anne my wife is sicke and like to die,
I will take order for her keeping close:
Enquire me out some meene borne Gentleman,
Whome I will marry straight to Clarence daughter
The boy is foolish and I feare not him:
Looke how thou dreamst: I say againe, giue out
That Anne my wife is sicke and like to die.
About it, for it stands me much vpon,
To stop all hopes whose growth may damage me,
I must be married to my brothers daughter,
Or else my Kingdome stands on brittle glasse,
Murther her brother, and then marry her,
Vncertaine way of gaine, but I am in
So farre in blood, that sin plucks on sin,
Teares falling pittie dwels not in this eye.

Enter Tirrel.

Is thy name Tirrel?
Tir. Iames Tirrel, and your most obedient subiect.
King. Art thou indeed?
Tir. Proue me my gracious soueraigne.
King. Dar'st thou resolue to kill a friend of mine?
Tir. I my Lord: but I had rather kill two deepe enemies,
King. Why there thou hast it, two deepe enemyes.
Foes to my rest that my sweete sleepes disturbs,
Are they that I would haue thee deale vpon:
Tirrel, I meane those bastards in the Tower.
Tir. Let me haue meanes to come to them,

And soone Ile rid you from the feare of them,
King. Thou singst sweete musicke. Come hither Tirrill,
Go by that token, rise and lend thine eare. He whispers in his eare.
Tis no more but so, say, is it done
And I will loue thee and preferre thee too.
Tir. Tis done my good Lord.
King. Shall wee heare from thee Tirrell, ere we sleepe?
Tir. Yea my good Lord. Enter Buckingham.
Buc. My Lord, I haue considered in my mind,
The late demand that you did sound me in.
King. Well let that passe Dorset is fled to Richmond.
Buc. I heare that newes my Lord.
King. Stanley, he is your wiues sonne: Well lookt too it.
Buc. My Lord I claime your gift, my due by promise,
For which your honor and your faith is pawnd,
The Earledome of Herford and the moueables,
The which you promised I should possesse.
King. Stanley looke to your wife, if they conuey
Letters to Richmond you shall answere it.
Buc. What sayes your Highnesse to my iust demand?
King. As I remember Henry the sixt
Did prophesie that Richmond should be King,
When Richmond was a little peeuish boy,
A King perhaps, perhaps,
Buc. My Lord.
King. How chance the prophet could not at that time,
Haue told me I being by, that I should kill him.
Buc. My Lord, your promise for the Earledome.
King Richmond, When last I was at Exeter,
The Maior in curtesie shewed me the Castle,
And called it Rugemount, at which name I started,
Because a Bard of Ireland told me once
I should not liue long after I saw Richmond
Buc. My Lord.
King. I whats a clocke?
Buc: I am thus bold to put your grace in minde
Of what you promisde me.
King. Well but whats a clocke?
Buc. Vpon the stroke of ten.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

King. Well, let it strike.
Buc. Why let it strike?
King. Because that like a Iacke thou keepst the stroke
Betwixt thy begging and my meditation:
I am not in the giuing vaine to day.
Buc. Why then resolue me whether you will or no?
Kin. Tut, tut, thou troublest me, I am not in the vaine. Exit.
Buc. Is it euen so, rewards hee my true seruice
With such deepe contempt, made I him King for this?
O let me thinke on Hastings, and be gone,
To Brecknocke, while my fearefull head is on. Exit.

Enter Sir Francis Tirrell.

Tir. The tiranous and bloody deede is done,
The most arch-acts of pittious massacre,
That euer yet this land was guilty of,
Dighton and Forrest whom I did subborne,
To do this ruthfull peece of butchery,
Although they were flesht villaines, bloudy dogs,
Melting with tenderneese and compassion,
Wept like two children in their deaths sad stories:
Loe thus quoth Dighton lay these tender babes,
Thus, thus quoth Forrest girdling one another
Within their innocent alablaster armes,
Their lipes like foure red Roses on a stalke,
Which in their sommer beauty kist each other,
A booke of prayer one their pillow laie,
which once quoth Forrest almost chang'd my mind,
But O the Diuell! there the villian stopt,
Whilst Dighton thus told, on we smoothered
The most repleniſht sweet worke of nature
That from the prime Creation euer he framde,
They could not speake, and so I left them both,
To bring these tidings to the bloody King,

Enter King Richard.

And heare he comes. All haile my soueraigne Liege.
King. Kind Tirrell, and I happy in thy newes?
Tir. If to haue done the thing you gaue in charge
Beget your hapyneſſe, bee happy then,
For it is done my Lord.

King. But didst thou see them dead?
Tir. I did my Lord.
King. And buried gentle Tirrill?
Tir. The Chaplaine of the Tower hath buried them:
But how or in what place I doe not know.
King. Come to mee Tirrill soone after supper,
And thou shalt tell the processe of their death,
Meane time but thinke how I may do thee good,
And be inheritor of thy desire, Exit Tirrill.
Farewell till soone.
The sonne of Clarence haue I pend vp close,
His daughter meanely haue I matcht in marriage,
The sonnes of Edward sleepe in Abrahams bosome,
And Anne my wife hath bid the world goodnight:
Now for I know the Brittaine Richmond aimes
And yong Elizabeth my brothers daughter,
And by that knot lookes proudly ore the Crowne,
To her I goe a iolly thriuing wooer. Enter Catesby.
Cat. My Lord.
King. Good newes or bad, that thou comest so bluntly?
Cat. Bad newes my Lord, Ely is fled to Richmond,
And Buckingham backt with the hardy Welchmen
Is in the field, and still his power encreaseth,
King Ely with Richmond troubles me more neare
Then Buckingham and his rash leueld army:
Come I haue heard that fearefull commenting,
Is leaden seruitor to dull delay,
Delay leades impotent and snaile-pac'd beggery,
Then fiery expedition be my wings,
Ioue, Mercury, and Herald for a King:
Come muster men, my counsaile is my shield,
We must be briefe, when traytors braue the field. Exeunt.

Enter Queene Margret sola.

Qu. Mar. So now prosperity begins to mellow,
And drop into the rotten mouth of death:
Here in these confines slilie haue I lurkt,
To watch the waining of mine aduersaries:
A dire induction am I witnesse too,
And will to France, hoping the consequence

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

Will proue as bitter, blacke and tragicall,
Withdraw thee wretched Margret, who comes heere?

Enter the Queene, and the Dutches of Yorke.

Qu. Ah my young Princes, ah my tender babes,
My vnblowne flower, new appearing sweets,
If yet your gentle soules flie in the aire,
And be not fixt in doome perpetuall,
Houer about me with your airie wings,
And heare your mothers lamentations.

Qu. Mar. Houer about her, say that right for right,
Hath dimd your infant morne, to aged night,

Qu. Wilt thou O God flie from such gentle lambes,
And throw them in the intrailes of the Wolfe:
When didst thou sleepe when such a deed was done?

Qu, Mar. When holy Mary died, and my sweete son.

Dut. Blinde sight, dead life, poore mortall liuing Ghost,
Woes sceane, worlds shame, graues due by life vsurpt,
Rest their vnrest on Englands lawfull earth,
Vnlawfull made drunke with innocents blood.

Qu. O that thou wouldst as well afford a graue,
As thou canst yeeld a melancholly seat,
Then would I hide my bones, not rest them heere:
O who hath any cause to mourne but I?

Dut. So many miseries haue craz'd my voyce
That my woe-wearied tongue is mute and dumbe,
Edward plantagenet, why art thou dead?

Qu, Mar. If ancient sorrow be most reuerent,
Giue mine the benefit of signiorie,
And let my woes frowne on the vpper hand,
If sorrow can admit society,
Tell ouer your woes againe by vewing mine:
I had an Edward till a Richard kild him.
I had a Richard, till a Richard kill him.
Thou hadst an Edward, till a Richard kild him,
Thou hadst a Richard, till a Richard kild him.

Dut. I had a Richard too, and thou didst kill him:
I had a Rutland too, and thou holpst to kill him:

Qu Mar. Thou hadst a Clarence too, till Richard kild him.
From forth the kennell of thy wombe hath crept,

A hell-

A hell-hound that doth hunt vs all to death,
That Dogge that had his teeth before his eyes
To worry lambes, and lap their gentle bloods,
That soule defacer of Gods handy worke,
Thy wombe let loose to chase vs to our graues,
O vpright, iust, and true disposing God,
How do I thanke thee, for this carnall curre
Preyes on the issue of his mothers body,
And make her pue-fellow with others mone.

Dut. O, Harries wife, triumph not in my woes,
God witnesse with me I haue wept for thee.

Qu, Mar. Beare with me I am hungry for reuenge,
And now I cloie me with beholding it:
Thy Edward he is dead, that stabd my Edward,
Thy other Edward dead, to quit my Edward,
Yong Yorke, he is but boote, because both they
Match not the high perfection of my losse:
Thy Clarence he is dead, that kild my Edward,
And the beholders of this tragicke play,
The adulterate Hastings, Riuers, Vaughan, Gray,
Vntimely smothered in their duskie graues,
Richard yet liues, hels blacke intelligencer,
Onely reserued their factor to buy soules,
And send them thither, but at hand,
Ensues his pitteous, and vnpittied end,
Earth gapes, hell burnes, fiends roare, Saints pray,
To haue him suddenly conueyed away.
Cancell his bonds of life deare God I pray,
That I may liue to say the Dog is dead.

Qu. O thou didst prophesie the time would come
That I should wish for thee to helpe me curse
That bottell'd spider, that foule hunch-backt toad.

Qu Mar. I call thee then vaine flourish of my fortune,
I call thee then poore shaddow painted Queene,
The presentation of but-what I was,
The flattering index of a direfull pageant,
One heau'd a high, to be hurled downe below,
A mother onely, mockt with two sweet babes,
A dreame of which thou wert, a breath, a bubble,

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

A signe of dignity, a garish flagge,
To bee the aime of euery dangerous shot,
A Queene in ieast, onely to fill the sceane:
Where is thy husband now, where be thy brothers?
Where be thy children, wherein doest thou ioy?
Who sues to me and cries God saue the Queene?
Where be the bending Peeres that flattered thee?
where be the thronging troupes that followed thee
Decline all this and see what now thou art,
For happy wife, a most distressed widdow:
For ioyfull mother one that wailes the name:
For Queene, a very Catife crown'd with care:
For one being sued too, one that humble sues:
For one commanding all, obeyed of none:
For one that scorn'd at me, now scorn'd of me.
Thus hath the course of iustice wheel'd about,
And left me but a very prey to time,
Hauing no more, but thought of what thou art,
To torture thee the more, being what thou art:
Thou didst vsurpe my place, and doest thou not
Vsurpe the iust proportion of my sorrow?
Now thy proud necke, beares halfe my burthened yoke,
From which, euen heere, I slip my wearied necke,
And leaue the burthen of it all on thee:
Farewell Yorkes wife, and Queene of sad mischance,
These English woes will make me smile in France.
Qu. O thou well skild in curses stay a while,
And teach me how to curse mine enemyes.
Qu, Mar. Forbeare to sleepe the night, and fast the day,
Compare deaths happinesse with liuing woe,
Thinke that thy babes were fairer then they were,
And he that slew them fowler then he is:
Bettring thy losse make the bad causer worse,
Reuoluing this will teach thee how to curse.
Qu. My words are dull, O quicken them with thine,
Qu, M. Thy woes will make them sharp & pierce like mine.
Dut. Why should calamity be full of words? Exit Ma.
Qu. Windie attornies to your clients woes,
Airy succeeders of intestate ioyes,

Poore

Poore breathing orators of miseries,
Let them haue scope, though what they doe impart
Helpe not all, yet not doe they ease the hart.
Dut. If so, then be not tong-tide, goe with me,
And in the breath of bitter words, lets smoo her
My damned sonne, which thy too sonnes smother'd
I heare his drum, be copious in exclaimes.

Enter King Richard marching with drummes and trumpets.

King. Who intercepts my expedition?
Dut. A she, that might haue intercepted thee,
By strangling thee in her accursed wombe,
From all the slaughters wretch, that thou hast done.
Qu. Had'st thou that forehead with a golden crowne,
Where should be grauen, if that right were right,
The slaughter of the Prince that owde that crowne,
And the dire death of my two sonnes, and brothers:
Tell me thou villaine slaue, where are my children?
Dut. Thou tode, thou tode, where is thy brother Clarence?
And little Ned Plantagenet, his sonne?
Qu. Where is kind Hastings, Riuers Vaughan, Gray,
King. A flourish trumpets, strike alarum drummes,
Let not the heauens heare these tell-taile women
Raile on the Lord anointed. Strike I say. The trumepts
Either be patient and intreat me faire, sounds.
Or with the clamorous reports of warre,
Thus will I drowne your exclamations.
Dut. art thou my sonne?
King. I, I thanke God, my Father and your selfe.
Dut. Then patiently heare my impatience.
King. Madam I haue a touch of your condition,
Which cannot brooke the accent of reproofe.
Dut. I will be milde and gentle in my speech.
King. and briefe good mother for I am in hast.
Dut. art thou so hastie I haue staid for thee,
God knowes in anguish, paine and agonie.
King. and came I not at last to comfort you?
Dut. No by the holy roode thou knowst it well,
Thou camst on earth, to make the earth my hell:

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

A greeuous burthen was thy birth to me,
Tetchie and waiward was thy infancy,
Thy schoole-daies frightfull, desperate, wild and furious:
Thy age confirmde, proud subtile, bloudie trecherous,
What comfortable houre canst thou name,
That euer grac't me in thy company?

King. Faith none but Humphrey houre, that cald your grace
To breakefast once forth of my company.
If it be so grarious in your sight,
Let me march on and not offend your grace.

Dut. O heare me speake, for I shall neuer see thee more.

King. Come, come, you are too bitter.

Dut. Either thou wilt die by Gods iust ordinance
Ere from his warre thou turne a conquerour,
Or I with griefe and extreame age shall perish,
And neuer looke vpon thy face againe:
Therefore take with thee my most heauy curse,
Which in the day of battell tire thee more
Then all the compleate armour that thou wearst,
My prayers on the aduerse party fight,
And there the little soules of Edwards children
Whisper the spirits of thine enemyes,
And promise them successe in victory,
Bloody thou art and bloody will be thy end,
Shame serues thy life, and doth thy death attend. Exit.

Qu. Though farr more cause, yet much lesse spirit to curse
Abides in me, I say amen to all.

King. Stay Madam, I must speake a word with you.

Qu. I haue no more sonnes of the royall blood,
For thee to murther, for my daughters, Richard
They shall be praying nunnes, not weeping Queenes,
And therefore leuell not to hit their liues,

King. You haue a daughter cald Elizabeth,
Vertuous and faire, royall and gracious.

Qu. And must she die for this? O let her liue,
And Ile corrupt her manners, staine her beauty,
Slander my selfe, as false to Edwards bed,
Throw ouer her the vaile of infamy,
So she may liue vnscarde from bleeding slaughter,

I will confesse she was not Edwards daughter.

King. Wrong not her birth shee is of royall blood.

Qu. To saue her life, Ile say she is not so.

King. Her life is onely safest in her birth.

Qu. And onely in that safety died her brothers.

King. Loe at their births good starres are opposite.

Qu. No to there liues bad friends were contrary.

King. All vnauoyded is the doome of destiny,

Qu. True when auoyded grace makes destany,
My babes were destinde to a fairer death,
If grace had blest thee with a fairer life.

King. Madam so thriue I in my dangerous attempt of hostile armes,
As intend more good to you and yours,
Then euer you and yours were by me wrong'd.

Qu. What good is couered with the face of heauen,
To be discouered that can doe me good.

King. The aduancement of your children mighty Lady,

Qu. Vp to some scaffold, there to loose their heads.

King. No to the dignity and height of honor,
The hight inperiall tipe of this earths glory.

Qu. Flatter my sorrowes with report of it,
Tell me what state, what dignity, what honor,
Canst thou demise to any childe of mine.

King. Euen all I haue, yea and my selfe and all,
Will I endow a child of thine,
So in the Lethe of thy angry soule,
Thou drowne the sad remembrance of those wtongs
Which thou supposest I haue done to thee.

Qu. Be briefe, least that the processe of thy kindnesse
Last longer telling then thy kindnesse doo.

King Then know that from my soule I loue thy daughter.

Qu. My daughters mother thinkes it with her soule.

King. What doe you thinke?

Qu. That thou doest loue my daughter from thy soule,
So from thy soule didst thou loue her brothers,
And from my hearts loue, I thanke thee for it,

King. Be not so hastie to confound my meaning,
I meane that with my soule I loue thy daughter,
And meane to make her Queene of England.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

Qu. Say then who doest thou meane shall be her King?
King. Euen he that makes her Queene, who should else?
Qu. What thou?
King. I, euen I, what thinke you of it Madam?
Qu. How canst thou woe her?
King. That I would learne of you,
As one that were best aquainted with her humor.
Qu. And wilt thou learne of me?
King. Madam with all my heart.
Qu. Send to her by the man that slew her brothers
A paire of bleeding hearts, thereon ingraue,
Edward and Yorke, then happily she will weepe,
Therefore present to her, as sometimes Margret
Did to thy Father, a handkercheffe steept in Rutlands blood,
And bid her drie her weeping eyes therewith,
If this inducement force her not to loue,
Send her a story of thy noble acts:
Tell her thou mad'st away her vnckle Clarence,
Her Vncle Riuers, yea, and for her sake
Madest quicke conueiance with her good Aunt Anne.
King. Come, come, ye mocke me, this is not the way
To winne your daughter.
Qu. There is no other way,
Vnlesse thou couldst put on some other shape,
And not be Richard that hath done all this.
King. Inferre faire Englands peace by his alliance.
Qu. Which she shall purchace with still lasting warre.
King. Say that the King which may command intreats.
Qu. That at her hands which the Kings king forbid.
King. Say she shall be a high and mighty Queene.
Qu. To waile the title as her mother doth.
King. Say I will loue her euerlastingly.
Qu. but how long shall that title euer last?
King. Sweetly inforce vnto her faire liues end,
Qu. But how long fairely shall that title last?
King. So long as heauen and nature lengthens it.
Qu. So long as hell and Richard likes of it.
King. Say I her soueraigne am her subiect loue.
Qu. But she your subiect loths such soueraingtie.

King.

King. Be eloquent in my behalfe to her.
Qu. An honest tale speeds best being plainely tould.
King. Then in plaine tearmes tell her my louing tale.
Qu. Plaine and not Honest is too harsh a stile,
King. Madam your reasons are too shallow and too quicke,
Qu. O no my reasons are too deepe and dead:
Too deepe and dead poore infants in there graue,
Harpe on it still shall I, till heart-strings breake,
King. Now by my George, my Garter, and my Crowne.
Qu. Prophain'd, dishounor'd, and the third vsurped,
King. I swere by nothing,
Qu. By nothing for this is no oath,
The George prophain'd, hath lost his holy honour:
The Garter blemisht, pawn'd his Knightly vertue:
The Crowne vsurpt disgrac't his Kingly dignity,
If nothing thou wilt swere to be beleeued,
Sweare then by something that thou hast not wrong'd,
King. Now, by the world:
Qu. Tis full of thy foule wrongs:
King. My Fathers death:
Qu. Thy selfe hath that dishonor'd.
King. Then by my selfe.
Qu. Thy selfe, thy selfe misusest:
King. Why then by God:
Qu. Gods wrong is most of all:
If thou hadst fear'd, to breake an oath by him,
The vnity the King thy brother made,
Had not beene broken, nor my brother slaine.
If thou hadst feard to breake an oth by him,
The Imperiall mettall circling now thy brow,
Had grac't the tender tembles of my child,
And both the Princes had beene breathing here,
Which now two tender play-fellowe for dust,
Thy broken faith hath made a prey for wormes.
King. By the time to come.
Qu. That thou hast wrong'd in time orepast,
For I my selfe haue many teares to wash
Hereafter time for time, by the past wrong'd,
The children liue, whose parents thou hast slaughtered,

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

Vngouernd youth, to waile it with her age,
The parents liue whose children thou hast butchered,
Old withred plants to waile it with their age:
Sweare not by time to come for that thou hast
Misused, ere vsed, by time misused orepast.
King. As I entend to prosper and repent,
So thriue I in my dangerous attempt
Of hostile armes, my selfe, my selfe confound,
Day yeeld me not thy light, nor night thy rest,
Be opposite all planets of good lucke
To my proceedings, if with pure hearts loue,
Immaculated deuotion, holy thoughts,
I render not thy beauteous princely daughter,
In her confists my happinesse and thine.
Without her followes to this land and me,
To thee her selfe and many a Christian soule,
Sad desolate ruine and decay,
It cannot be auoided but by this:
It will not be auoided but by this:
Therefore good Mother (I must call you so)
Be the atturney of my loue to her.
Plead what I will be, not what I haue beene,
Not by deserts, but what I will deserue:
Vrge the necessitie and state of times,
And be not peeuish fond in deepe designes.
Qu. Shall I be tempted of the diuell thus?
King. I, if the Diuell tempt thee to doe good,
Qu. Shall I forget my selfe to bee my selfe?
King. I, if your selues remembrance wrong your selfe.
Qu. But thou didst kill my Children.
King. but in your daughters wombe Ile bury them,
Wherein that nest of spicery there shall breed,
Selfes of themselues to your recomfiture,
Qu. Shall I goe win my daughter to thy will?
King. And be a happie mother in the deed.
Qu. I goe, writ to me very shortly.
King. Beare her my true loues kisse: farewell. Exit, Qu.
Relenting foole and shallow changing woman! Enter Rat.
Rat. My gracious soueraigne one the Westerne coast,

Rideth

Rideth a puissant Nauie: To the shore,
Throng many doubtfull hollow-harted friends,
Vnarm'd and vnresolu'd to beate them backe:
Tis thought that Richmond is their Admirall:
And there they hull expecting but the aide,
Of Buckingham, to welcome them a shore,
King. Some light-foot friend post to the D. of Norfolke.
Ratcliffe thy selfe, or Catesby, where is he?
Cat. Heere my Lord.
King. Flie to the Duke: post thou to Salisbury,
When thou comest there, dull vnmindfull villaine
Why stands thou still, and goest not to the Duke?
Cat. First mightie soueraigne let me know your mind,
What from your grace I shall deliuer him.
King. O true good Catesby, bid him leuie straight,
The greatest strength and power he can make,
And meete me presently at Salisbury.
Rat. What is your highnesse pleasure I shal do at Salisbury?
King. Why, what shouldst thou doe there before I goe?
Rat. Your Highnesse told me I should post before.
King. My minde is chang'd sir, my minde is chang'd:
How now what newes with you; Enter Darby.
Dar. None good my Lord to please you with hearing,
Nor none so bad but it may well be told.
King. Hoidaie a riddle neither good nor bad:
Why doest thou runne so many miles about,
When thou maiest tell thy tale a neerer way,
Once more what newes;
Dar. Richmond is on the seas.
King. There let him sinke, and be the seas on him,
White liuered runagate what doth he there;
Dar. I know not mightie soueraigne but by guesse
King. Well sir, as you guesse,
Dar. Stird vp by Dorset, Buckingham, and Ely,
He makes for England, there to claime the crowne.
King. Is the Chaire empty? Is the sword vnsway'd?
Is the King dead? the Empire vnpossest?
What heire of Yorke is there aliue but we?
And who is Englands King, but great Yorkes heire?

Then

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

Then tell me what doth he vpon the sea?
Dar. vnlesse for that my Leige I cannot guesse.
King. Vnlesse for that he comes to be your Liege,
You cannot guesse wherefore the Welchmen comes,
Thou wilt reuolt and flie to him I feare.
Dar. No mighty Liege, therefore mistrust me not.
King. Where is thy power now to beat him backe?
Where are thy tenants and thy followers?
Are they not now vpon the westerne shore,
Safe conducting the rebels from their ships,
Dar, No my good Lord my friends are in the North,
King. Cold friends to Richard, what do they in the North?
When they should serue their soueraigne in the West.
Dar, They haue not beene commanded mighty soueraigne,
Please it your Maiesty to giue me leaue,
Ile muster vp my friends and meete your grace,
Where and what time your maiesty shall please?
King. I, I, thou wouldst begone to ioyne with Richmond,
I will not trust you sir,
Dar. Most mighty soueraigne
You haue no cause to hold my friendship doubtfull,
I neuer was nor neuer will be false.
King. Well, go muster men; but heare you, leaue behind
Your son George Stanley, looke your faith be ferme:
Or else his heads assurance is but faile.
Dar. So deale with him, as I proue true to you. Exit.

Enter a Messenger.

Mes. My gracious soueraigne, now in Deuonshire,
As I by friends am well aduertised,
Sir William Courtney, and the haughtie Prelate,
Bishop of Exeter, his brother there,
With many more confederates are in armes,

Enter another Messenger.

Mes. My Leige in Kent the Guilfords are in armes,
And euery houre more competitors
Flocke to their aide, and still there power increaseth,

Enter another Messenger.

Mes. My Lord the army of the Duke of Buckingham.

He strikes him.

King.

King, Out on ye Owles, nothing but songs of death,
Take that vntile you bring mee better newes.
Mes, Your grace mistakes, the newes I bring is good,
My newes is, that by sudden flood and fall of waters,
The Duke of Buckinghams army is dispersed and scattered:
And he himselfe fled no man knowes whither.
King. O I cry you mercy I did mistake,
Ratcliffe reward him for the blow I gaue him;
Hath any well aduised friend giuen out,
Rewards for him that brings in Buckingham?
Mes. Such Proclamation hath beene made my Liege.

Enter another Messenger.

Mes, Sir Thomas Louell, and Lord marques Dorset,
Tis said my Liege are vp in armes.
Yet this good comfort bring I to your grace,
The Brittaine Nauie is dispersed, Richmond in Dorset shire,
Sent out a boat to aske them one the shore,
If they were his assistants, yea, or no:
Who answered him they came from Buckingham
Vpon his partie: he mistrusting them,
Hoist saile, and made away for Brittaine.
King. March on, march on since we are vp in armes.
If not to fight with forraine enemyes,
Yet to beat downe these rebels here at home.

Enter Catesby.

Cat. My Liege, the Duke of Buckingham is taken,
Thats the best newes, that the Eare of Richmond
Is with a mightie power landed at Milford,
Is colder newes, yet they must be told.
King. Away towards Salisbury, while we reason here,
A royall battell might bee wonne and lost.
Some one take order Buckingham, be brought
To Salisbury, the rest march on with me.

Enter Darby, Sir Christopher.

Dar. Sir Christopher, tell Richmond this from me,
That in the stie of this most bloody bore,
My son George Stanley is franckt vp in hold,
If I reuolt off goes yong Georges head,
The feare of that, with-holds my present aide,

But

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

But tell me, where is princely Richmond now?
Chri. At Pembrooke, or at Hertford west in Wales.
Dar. What men of name resort to him?
Chri. Sir Walter Herbert, a renowned souldier,
Sir Gilbert Talbot, sir William Stanley,
Oxford, redoubted Pembrooke, sir Iames Blunt,
Rice ap Thomas, with a valiant crew,
With many more of noble fame and worth,
And towards London they doe bend their course,
If by the way they be not fought withall.
Dar Returne vnto my Lord, commend me to him
Tell him, the Queene hath hartilie consented
He shall espouse Elizabeth her daughter,
These Letters will resolue him of my mind,
Farewell. Exeunt.

Enter Buckingham to execution.

Buc. Will not King Richard let me speake with him?
Rat. No my Lord, therefore be patient.
Buc Hastings, and Edwards children, Riuers, Gray,
Holie King Henry, and thy faire sonne Edward.
Vaughan, and all that haue miscarried,
By vnderhand corrupted, foule iniustice,
If that your moodie discontented soules,
Do through the cloudes behold this present houre,
Euen for reuenge mocke my destruction:
This is All-soules day fellowes, is it not?
Rat. It is my Lord.
Buc Why then all-soules, daie is my bodies Doomesday.
This is the day that in King Edwards time
I wisht might fall one me when I was found
False to his children, or his wiues allies:
This is the day where in I wisht to fall,
By the false faith of him I trusted most:
This is all-soules day, to my fearefull soule,
Is the determined, despite of my wronges:
That high all-seer that I dallied with,
Hath turnd my fained prair one my head,
And giuen in earnest what I begd in iest.
Thus doth he force the sword of wicked men

To turne their points on their maisters bosome:
Now Margrets curse is fallen vpon my head,
When he quoth she, shall split thy heart with sorrow,
Remember Margret was a propheteese.
Come sirs, conuey me to the blocke of shame,
Wrong hath but wrong, and blame the due of blame.

Enter Richmond with drumes and trumpets.

Rich. Fellowes in armes, and my most louing friends,
Bruis'd vnderneath the yoake of tyrannie,
Thus farre into the bowels of the land,
Haue we marcht on without impediment:
And heere receiue we from our father Stanley,
Lines of faire comfort, and encouragement,
The wretched, bloody, and vsurping boare,
That spoil'd your summer-field, and fruitfull vines,
Swils your warme blood like wash, and makes his trough,
In your imboweld bosome, this foule swine
Lies now euen in the center of this Isle,
Neere to the towne of Leicester as we learne:
From Tamworth thither, is but one daies march,
In Gods name cheare on, couragious friends,
To reape the haruest of perpetuall peace,
By this one bloudie triall of sharpe warre.
1 Lor. Euery mans conscience is a thousand swords
To fite against that bloudie homicide.
2 Lor. I doubt not but his friends will flie to vs.
3 Lor. He hath no friends but who are friends for feare,
Which in his greatest need will shrinke from him.
Rich. all for our aduantage, then in Gods name march,
True hope is swift, and flies with swallowes wings,
Kings it makes Gods, and meaner creatures Kings.

Enter King Richard, Nor. Ratcliffe, Catesby, with others.

King. Heere pitch our tents, euen here in Bosworth field,
Why how now Catesby, why lookest thou so sad?
Cat. My heart is ten times lighter then my lookes.
King. Norfolke, come hither:
Norfolke, we must haue knockes ha, must we not?
Nor. We must both giue and take, my gracious Lord.
King. Vp with my tent, heere will I lye to night,

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

But where to morrow? well all is one for that:
Who hath deſcried the number of the foe;
Nor. Six or ſeuen thouſand is their greateſt number.
King. Why, our battalian trebles that account,
Beſides that a Kings name is a tower of ſtrength,
Which they vpon the aduers party want:
Vp with my tent there valiant Gentlemen,
Let vs ſuruey the vantage of the field,
Call for ſome men of ſound direction,
Lets want no diſcipline, make no delay,
For Lords, to morrow is a buſie day. Exeunt.

Enter Richmond with the Lords.

Rich. The weary Sunne hath made a golden ſeat,
And by the bright tracke of his fiery Carre,
Giues ſignall of a goodly day to morrow,
Where is Sir William Brandon, he ſhall beare my ſtanderd,
The Earle of Pembrooke keepe his regiment,
Good Captaine Blunt, beare my good night to him,
And by the ſecond houre in the morning,
Deſire the Earle to ſee me in my Tent.
Yet one thing more, good Blunt before thou goeſt,
Where is Lord Stanley quarterd, doeſt thou know?
Blunt. Vnles I haue miſtaine his colours much,
Which well I am aſſur'd I haue not done.
His regiment lieth halfe a mile at leaſt,
South from the mighty power of the King.
Rich. If without perill it be poſſible,
Good Captaine Blunt beare my good night to him,
And giue him from me this moſt needfull ſcrowle.
Blunt. Vpon my life my Lord, Ile vendrtake it.
Rich. Farewell Good Blunt.
Giue me ſome Inke and paper in my tent,
Ile draw the forme and modle of our battell,
Limit each leader to his ſeuerall charge,
And part in iuſt proportion our ſmall ſtrength:
Come let vs conſult vpon to morrowes buſineſſe,
Into our tent, the aire is raw and cold.

Enter King Richard, Nor. Ratcliffe, Catesby.

King. What is a clocke!

Cat.

Cat. It is ſix of the clocke full ſupper time.
King. I will not ſup to night, giue me ſome Inke and paper,
What is my Beauer eaſier then it was?
And all my armour laid into my tent.
Cat. It is my Leige, and all things are in readineſſe,
King. Good Norfolke hie thee to thy charge,
Vſe carefull watch, chuſe truſtie Centinell.
Nor. I goe my Lord.
King. Stur with the Larke to morrow gentle Norfolke.
Nor. I warrant you my Lord.
King. Catesby.
Rat, My Lord.
King. Send out a Purſeuant at armes
To Stanleys regiment, bid him bring his power
Before Sun-riſing, leaſt his ſonne George fall
Into the blind caue of eternall night,
Fill me a boule of wine, giue me a watch,
Saddle white Surrey for the field to morrow,
Looke that my ſtaues be ſound and not too heauy Ratcliffe.
Rat. My Lord.
King. Saweſt thou the melancholy L. Northumberland?
Rat. Thomas the Earle of Surrey, and himſelfe,
Much like Cockſhut time, from troupe to troupe
Went through the army chering vp the ſouldiers.
King. ſo I am ſatisfied, giue me a boule of wine,
I haue not that alacrity of ſpirit,
Nor cleare of mind that I was wont to haue:
Set it downe, is Inke and paper ready?
Rat, It is my Lord.
King. Bid my guard watch, leaue me,
Ratcliffe about the midſt of night come to my tent
And helpe to arme me, leaue me I ſay. Exit Rat.

Enter Darby to Richmond in his tent,

Dar. Fortune and victory ſit one thy helme.
Rich. All comfort that the darke night can aford,
Be to thy perſon, noble father in lawe,
Tell me how fares our noble mother?
Dar. I by attorney bleſſe thee from thy mother,
Who prayes continually for Richmonds good

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

So much for that: the silent houres steale on,
A flakie darkenesse breakes within the East,
In briefe, for so the season bids vs be:
Prepare thy battell early in the morning,
And put thy fortune to the arbitrement
Of bloudy strokes and mortall staring warre,
I as I may, that which I would I cannot,
With best aduantage will deceiue the time,
And aide thee in this doubtfull shocke of armes:
But one thy side I may not be too forward,
Least being seene thy tender brother George,
Be executed in his fathers sight.
Farewell, the leasure and the fearefull time:
Cuts off the ceremonious vowes of loue,
And ample enterchange of sweete discourse,
Which so long sundred friends should dwell vpon,
God giue leisure of these rights of loue,
Once more adiew be valiant and speede well.

Rich. Good Lords conduct him to his regiment:
Ile striue with troubled thoughts to take a nap,
Least leaden slumber peise me downe to morrow,
When I should mount with wings of victory:
Once more good night kind Lords & gentlemen. Exeunt.
O thou whose captaine I account my selfe,
Looke one my force with thy gracious eyes:
Put in there hands thy bruising Irons of wrath,
That they may crush downe with heauy fall,
The vsurping helmet of our aduersaries,
Make vs thy ministers of chasticement:
That we may praise thee in the victory,
To thee I doe commend my watchfull soule,
Ere I let fall the windowes of mine eyes,
Sleeping and waking, oh, defend me still.

Enter the ghost of prince Ed. son to Henry the sixt

Ghost to K. Ric. Let me sit heauy on thy soule to morrow,
Thinke how thou stabst me in my prime of youth
At Tewkesbury: dispaire and die.

To Rich. Be cheerefull Richmond, for the wronged soules

Of butchered Princes fight in thy behalfe,
King Henries issue Richmond comforts thee.

Enter the Ghost of Henry the sixt,

Ghost to K. Ric. When I was mortall my annointed body,
By thee was punched full of holes,
Thinke on the Tower, and me: dispaire and die,
Harrie the sixt bids thee dispaire and die,

To Rich. Vertuous and holy be thou conqueror,
Harrie that Prophesied thou shouldst be King,
Doth comfort thee in thy sleepe, liue and flourish.

Enter the Ghost of Clarence.

Ghost. Let me sit heauy one thy soule to morrow,
I that was washt to death with fullsome wine,
Poore Clarence by thy guile betrayd to death:
To morrow in the battell thinke on me,
And fall thy edgelesse sword, dispaire and die.

To Rich. Thou off-spring of the house of Lancaster,
The wronged heires of Yorke do pray for thee,
Good Angels guard thy battell, liue and flourish.

Enter the ghosts of Riuers, Gray, Vaughan,

Riu. Let me sit heauy one thy soule to morrow,
Riuers, that died at Pomfret, dispaire and die.

Gray. Thinke vpon Gray, and let thy soule dispaire.

Vaugh. Thinke vpon Vaughan, and with guilty feare
Let fall thy launce, dispaire and die.

All to Rich. Awake and thinke our wrongs in Rich. bosome,
Will conquer him, awake and win the day.

Enter the ghost of L. Hastings.

Ghost. Bloody and guilty, guiltily awake,
And in a bloody battell end thy dayes.
Thinke on Lord Hastings dispaire and die.

To Rich. Quiet vntroubled soule, awake, awake,
Arme, fight and conquer for faire Englands sake.

Enter the Ghost of two yong Princes

Ghost. Dreame on thy cousens smothered in the tower
Let vs be layd within thy bosome Richard,
And Weigh thee downe to ruine shame and death,
Thy Nephewes soules bid thee dispaire and die.

To Rich. Sleepe Richmond sleepe in peace, and wake in ioy.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

Good Angels guard thee from the Boares annoy,
Liue and beget a happy race of Kings:
Edwards vnhappy sonnes do bid thee flourish.

Enter the ghost of Queene Anne his wife.

Richard, Thy wife that wretched Anne thy wife.
That neuer slept a quiet houre with thee,
Now fils thy sleepe with perturbations,
To morrow in the battaile thinke one mé,
And fall thy edgelesse sword, despaire and die.
To Rich. Thou quiet soule, sleepe thou aquiet sleepe,
Dreame of successe and happy victory,
Thy aduersaries wife doth pray for thee.

Enter the ghost of Buckingham.

The first was I that helpt thee to the Crowne,
The last was I that felt the tyrany,
O in the battell thinke on Buckingham,
And die in terror of thy guiltinesse:
Dreame on, dreame on, of bloudie deeds and death,
Fainting dispaire, dispairing yeeld thy breath.
To Rich. I died for hope ere I could lend thee aid,
But cheare thy heart, and be thou not dismaid,
God and good Angels fight on Richmonds side,
And Richard falls in height of all his pride.

K. Richard starteth out of a dreame.

K Rich. Giue me another horse, bind vp my wounds:
Haue mercy Iesu: soft I did but dreame.
O coward conscience, how dost thou afflict me?
The lights burne blew, it is not deade midnight:
Cold fearefull drops stand on my trembling flesh,
What doe I feare my selfe? theres none else by,
Richard loues Richard, that is I am I,
Is there a murtherer here, No. yes I am,
Then flie, what from my selfe? great reason why,
Least I reuenge. What? my selfe vpon my selfe;
Alacke I loue my selfe, wherefore? for any good
That my selfe hath done vnto my selfe:

O no: alas I rather hate my selfe,
For hatefull deeds committed by my selfe:
I am a villaine, yet I lye, I am not.
Foole of thy selfe speake well, foole doe not flatter,
My conscience hath a thousand seuerall tongues,
And euery tongue brings in a seuerall tale.
And euery tale condemnes me for a villaine:
Periury, in the highest degree,
Murder, sterne murder, in the dyrest degree,
All seuerall sinnes, all vsde in each degree,
Throng all to the barre, crying all, guiltie, guiltie,
I shall dispaire, there is no creature loues me,
And if I die, no soule shall pittie me:
And wherefore should they? since that I my selfe,
Find in my selfe, no pitty to my selfe.
Me thought the soules of all that I haue murthered
Came to my tent, and euery one did threat
To morrowes vengeance on the head of Richard

Enter Ratcliffe.

Rat My Lord.
King. Zounds, who is there?
Rat. My Lord tis I: the earely village cocke,
Haue thrice done salutation to the morne.
Your friends are vp, and buckle on their armour,
King. O Ratcliffe, I haue dream'd a fearefull dreame,
What thinkst thou, will our friends proue all true?
Rat. No doubt my Lord.
King. O Ratcliffe I feare, I feare,
Rat. Nay good my Lord be not affraid of shadowes.
King. By the Apostle Paul, shadowes to night
Haue strooke more terrour to the soule of Richard,
Then can the substance of ten thousand souldiers
Armed in proofe, and led by shallow Richmond.
Tis not yet neere day come goe with me,
Vnder our tents Ile play the ewese-dropper,
To heare if any meane to shrinke from me. Exeunt.

Enter the lords to Richmond.

Lords. Good morrow Richmond.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

Rich. Cry mercy Lords, and watchfull gentle men,
That you haue tane a tardy sluggard heere.
Lor. How haue you slept my Lord?
Rich. The sweetest sleepe, and fairest boding dreames,
That euer entred in a drowsie head,
Haue I since your departure had my Lord;
Me thought their soules whose body Richard murthered,
Came to my tent and cried on victory:
I promise you my soule is very iocund,
In the remembrance of so faire a dreame,
How farre into the morning is it Lords?
Lor. Vpon the stroke of foure.
Rich. Why then tis time to arme, and giue direction.
More then I haue said, louing country-men, (His Oration to
The leisure and inforcement of the time, (his souldiers.
Forbids to dwell vpon, yet remember this,
God, and our good cause, fight vpon our side,
The prayers of holy Saints and wronged soules,
Like high reard bulwarkes, stand before our faces,
Richard except, those whom we fight against,
Had rather haue vs winne, then him they follow:
For what is he they follow? truely gentlemen,
A bloudie tyrant, and a homicide.
One raised in bloud, and one in bloud established:
One that made meanes to come by that he hath,
And slaughtered those that were the meanes to helpe him:
A base foule stone, made precious by the soyle
Of Englands chaire, where he is falsly set,
One that hath euer beene Gods enemy:
Then if you fight against Gods enemy,
God will in iustice ward you as his souldiers:
If you sweare to put a tyrant downe,
You sleepe in peace the tyrant being slaine,
If you doe fight against your countryes foes,
Your countries fat, shall pay your paines the hire.
If yon doe fight in safegard of your wiues,
Your wiues shall welcome home the conquerours:
If you doe free your children from the sword,
Your childrens children quits it in your age:

Then

Then in the name of God and all these rights,
Aduance your standards draw your willing swords
For me, the ransome of my bold attempt,
Shall be this cold corps on the earths could face:
But if I thriue, the gaine of my attempt,
The least of you shall share his part thereof,
Sound drumes and trumpets boldly, and cheerefully,
God, and Saint George, Richmond, and victory.

Enter King Richard, Rat. &c.

King. What sayd Northumberland as touching Richmond?
Rat. That he was neuer train'd vp in armes.
King. He sayd the truth, and what said Surrey then.
Rat. He smiled and sayd, the better for our purpose.
King. He was in the right, and so indeed it is:
Tell the clocke there The clocke striketh.
Giue me a Kalender, who saw the sunne to day?
Rat. Not I my Lord,
King. then he disdaines to shine, for by the booke,
He should haue brau'd the East an houre agoe,
A blacke day will it be to some body,
Rat. My Lord.
King. The sunne will not be seene to day,
The skie doth frowne and lowre vpon our army,
I would these dewie teares were from the ground,
Not shine to day, why, what is that to me
More then to Richmond? for the selfe-same heauen
That frownes on me looke sadly vpon him.

Enter Norfolke,

Nor. Arme, arme, my Lord, the foe vaunts in the field.
King. Come bustle, bustle, caparison my horse,
Call vp Lord Stanley, bid him bring his power,
I will lead forth my souldiers to the plaine,
And thus my battell shall bee ordered.
My fore-ward shall be drawne in length,
Consisting equally of horse and foote.
Our archers shall be placed in the midst,
Iohn Duke of Norfolke, Thomas Earle of Surrey
Shall haue the leading of the foote and horse,
They thus directed, we will follow

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

In the maine battell, whose puissance on either side
Shall bee well-winged with our chiefest horse ?
This, and Saint George to boote, what thinkest thou not.
Nor. A good direction warlike soueraigne, He sheweth him a paper.
This found I one my tent this morning.
Iocker of Norfolke, be not to bold,
For Dickon thy master is bought and sold.
King. A thing deuised by the enemy,
Goe Gentlemen euery man vnto his charge,
Let not our babling dreames affright our soules,
Conscience is a word that cowards vse,
Deuisde as first to keepe the strong in awe,
Our strong armes be our consciences, our swords our lawe.
March on, ioyne brauely, let vs too it pell mell,
If not to heauen, then hand in hand to hell, His oration to his army.
What shall I say more then I haue inferd,
Remember who you are in cope withall,
A sort of vagabonds, Rascols, and run-awayes,
A scum of Brittaines, and base lackey peasants,
Whome their ore cloyed countrey vomits forth
To desperate aduentures and assur'd destruction,
You sleeping safe they bring you to vnrest :
You hauing lands, and blest with beautious wiues,
They would restraine the one, distaine the other,
And who doth lead them but a paltry fellow?
Long kept in Brittaine at our mothers cost,
A milke-sop one that neuer in his life
Felt so much cold as ouer shooes in snow :
Lets whip these straglers ore the seas againe,
Lash hence these ouerweening rags of France,
These famisht beggers weary of their liues,
Who but for dreaming on this fond exploit,
For want of meanes poore rats had hang'd themselues.
If we be conquered let men conquer vs,
And not these bastard Brittaines whom our fathers
Haue in their owne land beaten, bob'd and thumpt,
And on record left them the heire of shame.
Shall these enioy our lands, lie with our wiues ?
Rauish our daughters, harke I heare their drum,

Right

Right Gentlemen of England fight boldly yeomen,
Draw Archers, draw you arowes to the head,
Spur your proud horses hard, and ride in blood,
Amaze the welkin with your broken staues,
What saies Lord Stanley will he bring his power ?
Mes. My Lord he doth deny to come.
King. Off with his sonne Georges head.
Nor. My Lord the enemy is past the marsh,
After the battell let George Stanley die.
King. A thousand hearts are great within my bosome,
Aduance our standards, set vpon our foes,
Our ancient word of courage faire Saint George
Inspire vs with the speene of fiery Dragons,
Vpon them, victory sits on our helpes.
Alarum excursions, Enter Catesby.
Cat. Rescew my Lord of Norfolke, rescew rescew,
The King enacts more wonders then a man,
Daring an opposite to euery danger,
His horse is slaine, and all on foote he fights,
Seeking for Richmond in the throat of death,
Rescew, faire Lord, or else the day is lost. Enter Richard
King. A horse, a horse my Kingdome for a horse.
Cat. Withdraw my Lord, ile helpe you to a horse.
King. Slaue I haue set my life vpon a cast,
And I will stand the hazard of the die,
I thinke there be sixe Richmonds in the field,
Fiue haue I slaine to day instead of him.
A horse, a horse, my kingdome for a horse:
Alarum, Enter Richard & Richmond, they fight, Richard is slaine then retrait being sounded. Enter Richmond. Darby bearing the Crowne with other Lords.
Rich. God and your arme be praised victorious friends,
The day is ours the bloudie dog is dead.
Dar. Couragious Richmond, well hast thou acquit thee,
Loe heere this long vsurped royalties,
From the dead temples of this bloudy wretch,
Haue I pluckt off to grace thy browes withall,
Weare it, and make much of it.
Rich. Great God of heauen say Amen to all,

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22320) LONDON, 1629 THE BODLEIAN LIBRARY (Arch. G e.10) Octavo

But tell me, is yong George Stanley liuing ?
Dar. He is my Lord, and safe in Lester towne,
Whether if it please you, we may now withdraw vs.
Rich. what men of name are slaine one either side ?
Iohn Duke of Norfolke, Walter Lord Ferris, sir
Robert Brokenbury, sir William Brandon.
Rich. Enter their bodies as become their births,
Proclaime a pardon to the souldiers fled,
That in submission will returne vs,
And then as we haue tane the Sacrament,
We will vnite the white rose and red.
Smile heauen vpon this faire coniunction,
That long hath frown'd vpon their enmity.
What traytor heares me, and sayes not Amen?
England hath long beene mad, and scard her selfe,
The brother blindly shed the brothers blood,
The father rashly slaughtered his owne sonne,
The sonne compeld, beene butcher to the sire,
All this deuided Yorke and Lancaster,
Deuided in there dire diuision.
O now let Richmond and Elizabeth,
The true succeeders of each royall house,
By Gods faire ordinance conioyne together,
And let thy heires (God if they will be so)
Enrich the time to come with smooth-fac't peace,
With smiling plenty and faire prosperous daies,
Abate the edge of traitors gracious Lord,
That would reduce these bloudie dayes againe,
And make poore England weepe in streames of bloud,
Let them not liue to tast this lands increase,
That would with treason wound this faire lands peace.
Now ciuell wounds are stopt, peace liues againe,
That she may long liue heare, God say Amen.

FINIS.
